West, Soviet Swap Berlin Interim Plans

House Votes $38.8 Billion For Defense

Takes Army's Side In Missile Controversy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House sided with the Army Wednesday in the Pentagon missile controversy as it voted $38,848,339,000 to run the Defense Department in the next fiscal year.

A 393-3 rollcall vote passed the bill and sent it to the Senate.

The House went along with the recommendation of its Appropriations Committee in sharply cutting money for the Air Force Bomarc antiaircraft missile and boosting funds for the Army's Nike-Hercules missile.

But it refused to cut out all funds for Bomarc procurement, rejecting by standing vote of 178-51 a move to disallow even the 200 million dollars recommended by the committee.

It also turned down attempts to force the administration to maintain an Army of at least 900,000 men instead of the 870,000 programmed by the President and approved by the committee. An amendment by Rep. Daniel J. Flood (D-Pa) to increase Army strength failed by standing vote of 131-43.

No Marine Corps Hike

Flood abandoned plans to try to increase the strength of the Marine Corps from 175,000 to 200,000.

No effort was made to restore to the bill the 260 million dollars for construction of a new conventional-powered aircraft carrier for the Navy. The committee had rejected the request. Several members complained against the action, but presumably felt their chances to restore the money would be better in the Senate.

Knocked down by voice vote was an attempt by Rep. Thomas B. Curtis (R-Mo) to eliminate 255 million dollars alloted for anti-submarine warfare, in excess of the amount requested by President Eisenhower.

The House made no changes in any of the scores of money allotments recommended by the Appropriations Committee, which had made an over-all cut of $399,861,000 under Eisenhower's budget requests.

Three Demos Oppose Bill

The three members who voted against passage of the bill were Reps. Randall S. Harmon of Indiana, Byron L. Johnson of Colorado and William H. Meyer of Vermont—all Democrats.

As it went to the Senate the bill earmarks the funds this way:

Army, $9,206,905,000, an increase of $221,905,000 over the President's request and $155,203,800 over current year appropriations.

Air Force, $17,228,506,000, a slash of $538,694,000 from the request and a cut of $753,770,800 from this year's allotment.

Office of Defense Secretary, $1,387,825,000, a $400,000 cut in the request but a boost of $13,906,300 over current year money.

$10,000 For Armor

LONDON (AP)—An old suit that was never worn was bought for 3,570 pounds ($10,000) at an auction here.

It was a suit of jousting armor made for Elector Christian I of Saxony who died before he was due to receive it as a Christmas present in 1591.

Ecuador Under Martial Law As Rioting Ends

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (AP) — All-night riots here in Ecuador's largest city ended Wednesday with eight persons dead and the army in control. President Camillo Ponce placed the entire country under martial law. He blamed the Communists.

Troops rumbled through this big Pacific port city at dawn in tanks and armored cars. The display of force stopped more than six hours of fighting between civilians and police. More than a hundred persons were injured.

Ponce has repeatedly warned that Communist agitators are trying to create a background of violence throughout the country. He says they are trying to force cancellation or postponement of next February's inter-American foreign minister's conference in the capital at Quito.

The presidential press office issued a statement charging the rioting and an uprising at Porto Viejo last week had been exploited by Communists according to a prepared plan.

Rioting was touched off by student resentment toward Police Chief Leonidas del Campo's order for police to break up student street demonstrations. The chief was relieved when the soldiers took over the city. The military commander, Lt. Col. Segundo Morosh, named naval Capt. Jacinto Andrade acting head of the city's police.

The demonstrations began earlier this week after two students were killed. That was in an uprising at the Porto Viejo garrison last Friday.

Basic Stands Maintained By Conferees

Allies Propose Token Troop Cut, Curbs On Spying

GENEVA (AP)—The Western powers and the Soviet Union brought out rival proposals Wednesday for an interim settlement of the Berlin crisis.

Western authorities said both sides maintained their basic positions on the critical question Therefore, they added, no progress of political substance thus far has been achieved.

But the move represented the first time the East and West had gotten to the point of swapping possible solutions for the divided city.

One foreign minister said negotiations might yet produce a single document containing recommendations which could be submitted to a summit conference for decision.

The Western plan included a symbolic reduction of troops and a curb on subversive activities in both parts of divided Berlin.

The Western foreign ministers submitted the proposals to Russia's Andrei Gromyko at a private meeting at Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's villa, British and French delegation sources reported.

No Comment By Gromyko

They said the plan was put forward as a possible basis of discussion in further private meetings, but there was no immediate response from Gromyko.

There was a report here that Gromyko may fly to Albania this weekend for talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev on the Berlin question. Khrushchev is visiting the little Communist country on the Adriatic Sea.

No comment was available immediately from the Soviet delegation on the report.

Western diplomats said, however, they have reason to think Gromyko will go to Albania and that it might lead to a swifter resolution of the difficulties confronting the Big Four foreign ministers.

The proposals put forward by the Western ministers consisted of four general principles to govern a stopgap Berlin solution.

West Would Retain Rights

In general they envisage:

Preservation of the West's war-won rights and privileges in West Berlin.

A Big Four understanding that Berlin's existing status will not be changed by one-sided action.

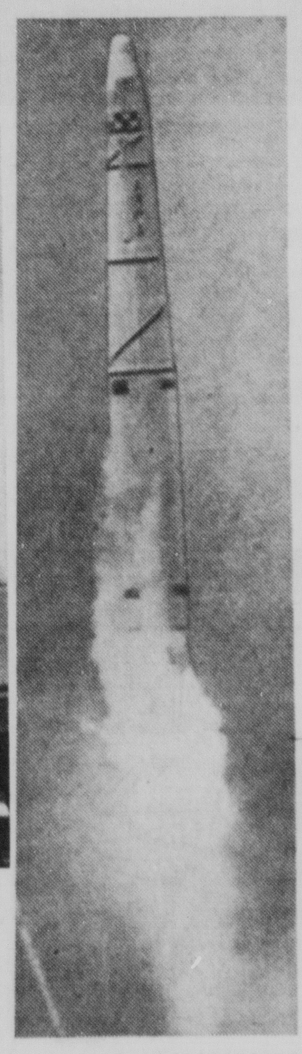

Western willingness to consider certain improvements or modifications in Berlin as a whole.

The latter could include token cuts in U.S., British and French forces in West Berlin, a curb on the activities of spies and saboteurs in both parts of the city, and a Big Four commission with which the Germans could be associated to watch over the workings of current arrangements.

The Western ministers made their proposal after Gromyko on Monday had submitted a document listing the Soviet outline of an East-West arrangement for running Berlin.

The Soviet proposal was not disclosed in detail but Western sources said that broadly it followed the Soviet Union's known position for ending the present Allied troop arrangement in West Berlin.

Mouse Satellite Rocket Launched

The nose cone of Discoverer III, carrying a recovery capsule and four mice, is fastened to the space vehicle (above) at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., in preparation for yesterday's launching. Discoverer Apparently Didn't Orbit

Tracking Stations Report No Signals After Launching

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department announced Wednesday night that early scientific information indicated the Discoverer III satellite did not go into orbit.

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Four black mice rocketed into space Wednesday, but three hours later the Air Force said it is doubtful their satellite rocket, Discoverer III, is in orbit.

Col. Richard E. Curtin of the Ballistic Missile Division said no information had been received at tracking stations at Kodiak Island and the Hawaiian Islands.

"Tracking officers doubt that the satellite is in orbit," he said.

The Air Force had hoped to eject the mice over the Pacific Thursday and catch them as they parachuted. If this had worked, the mice would have been the first creatures to return alive from orbit.

Col. Curtin said information received at telemetry stations here, at nearby Point Mugu and an instrumentation ship 1,200 miles down the Pacific missile range indicated that the launching was successful. But he did not know why no radioed reports were received from the satellite.

He spoke to newsmen three hours after the launch.

Mice In Separate Cages

The tracking stations around the world were alerted to try to find the satellite, he said.

Success or failure of this search will be announced in Washington and at Ballistic Missiles Division headquarters in Inglewood, Calif., he said.

Study of the data from the tracking stations here and aboard the telemetry ship, Col. Curtin said, should provide information as to whether the mice survived the launching.

The rodents crouched in tiny individual cages in a capsule in the nose cone of Discoverer III.

The 160-pound plastic capsule, shaped like an ice cream cone with the tip rounded off, contains everything the mice need to survive in space for several days.

The 78-foot rocket — a Thor IRBM first stage and Bell-Hustler second stage—rose vertically from its pad at the ocean's edge and nosed over gradually toward the south.

Like earlier Discoverers, it was aimed for orbit around the poles. Discoverer III's goal: an orbit every 94 minutes, with high point of 480 miles and low of 140, at a speed of 18,000 miles. The satellite part is the entire 1,600-pound second stage.

Prelude To Man In Space

This wasn't the first mouse trip into space. Others have been sent up from Cape Canaveral, Fla., but they were not intended to orbit, and the nose cones in which they rode were not recovered.

On May 28, the Army fired two monkeys into space and recovered them alive and well after a 1,500-mile ride from Cape Canaveral. They were the first animals this country has retrieved alive from space.

The mice, like the monkeys, are making the trips as a prelude to man's venture into space.

The thrice-delayed launching was at 1:09 p. m. in perfect weather. Sunny skies had replaced morning overcast.

Plans were for the capsule to be ejected 26 hours after launching on the satellite's 17th pass, over a 50x200-mile area, 700 miles north of Hawaii. Eight C119 Flying Boxcars, trailing trapeze-like devices, hoped to snag the capsule's chute. If they missed, destroyers would try to fish it from the sea. Odds on successful recovery were reckoned at 700 to 1.

Four Convicts Saw Way Out Of Iowa Prison

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP)—Four skinny prisoners sawed and wriggled their way out of the rock-walled Iowa Penitentiary Wednesday in a skillful 90-minute operation.

The four made a successful escape while prison officials were getting an "all is well" wave from Lawrence W. Smith, 53, night captain in cellblock 19.

Smith and guard Larry H. Pickard, 60, both armed only with night sticks because they were stationed inside the cellblock, were overpowered at knifepoint.

The captain had detected the breakout at 12:25 a.m. when he heard Robert Janes, 24, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, on the walkway outside his second-tier cell.

Almost simultaneously Albert M. Boerger, 26, of Kansas City, caught Pickard by surprise in a different part of the building and then Lloyd Woodson, 38, of Quincy, Ill., and Elun Girdler Jr., 23, of Peoria, Ill., came out of their cells.

Before Smith was taken he had pushed an alarm button, but he was forced immediately to call the deputy warden's office and say he had accidentally hit the button and to disregard the warning signal.

Pickard was bound with twine and Smith was directed to acknowledge to a guard who came to a door outside the cellblock every 20 minutes that everything was all right.

Meantime, the convicts cut through two 1½-inch-thick steel bars on an unscreened window on an outside wall. They forced the 18-inch bars down, squirmed through the narrow opening and dropped about 10 feet to the ground. They climbed an eight-foot wire fence and disappeared into a hilly, wooded area.

Warden John Bennett said the four had cut two steel bars on the doors of their individual cells over a period of several days. He theorized they might have used power saw blades which fellow convicts could have smuggled out of the machine shop. The cutting instruments have not been found, he said.

Steel Union Board Called To Meeting

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel union officers summoned the union's 33-member executive board to a meeting Thursday to talk over stalemated wage contract negotiations.

The call came as negotiations passed the halfway point between their beginning May 5 and the expiration date of the present three-year contract June 30.

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, said he did not know whether the board would call for a meeting of the union's 171-member wage policy committee.

Ike Declares:

Geneva Results Do Not Justify Summit Party

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prospects for a summit meeting darkened Wednesday when President Eisenhower said progress made so far at Geneva would not warrant his going to a parley of the great powers' leaders.

Eisenhower told a news conference he sought no more from the three-week-old Geneva meeting of foreign ministers than "a decent working paper" on which leaders of the Soviet and the Western Big Three could go to work this summer.

But, he added: "No, there has not been any detectable progress that to my mind would justify the holding of a summit meeting."

The least to be expected from the Soviet Union, he stipulated, is a clear commitment now that the rights of the Western powers in Berlin will be respected until a reunified Germany can assume control of the divided city.

The summit question opened the news conference—the first one held by Eisenhower since the Geneva talks began. It was followed by a wide-ranging barrage of queries on home front and military problems.

The President ducked none of them. He said:

1. It is completely untrue that he has stepped in on the side of management in the steel wage negotiations. The deadlock, if continued, could bring a nationwide steelworkers strike July 1.

Eisenhower was accused on Sunday by President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of throwing the weight of his prestige against the United Steelworkers' demands, and a newsman asked for a reply.

2. The administration shortly will ask Congress to raise the ceiling on the 286-billion-dollar federal debt, and perhaps—to ease the Treasury's borrowing problem—to boost the 4¼ per cent limit on the interest rate on government bonds.

He acknowledged he discussed the debt dilemma Monday at a White House meeting with Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson and congressional leaders of both parties.

3. It would be tragic, Eisenhower said, if the issue of anti-Semitism should be injected seriously into the Senate battle over confirmation of Lewis L. Strauss as secretary of commerce. Strauss is a Jew.

In response to another question, Eisenhower conceded it would be strange if any individual were admired and respected by everyone in the world, "so I suppose there is some room for honest difference of opinion" about Strauss.

4. Eisenhower said Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy will complete within about 10 days an exhaustive weapons study which may settle the Army-Air Force squabble over missiles.

The President said he did not believe he personally would be obliged to make a decision on priority between the Army's Nike-Hercules and the Air Force Bomarc.

Long's Speedy Recovery Seen

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Gov. Earl K. Long of Louisiana—boiling mad at being declared mentally ill—was promised by a physician Wednesday that he stood a good chance to get well within three months.

This was told The Associated Press by attending physicians in the psychiatric clinic of John Sealy Hospital who did not want to be identified.

This informal prediction threw into still greater confusion the Louisiana political picture. Gov. Long has until Sept. 15 to resign his office and file for the Democratic primary to succeed himself, a plan he announced some weeks ago.

Clinic physicians said Gov. Long is not violent and "is very clear in his thinking and speaking."

There were signs the governor was being kept advised of political developments in Louisiana, where the powerful Long machine has been running on momentum and committee action.

In an exclusive interview with The Associated Press, the governor's sister, Mrs. W. M. Knott of Many, La., said:

Senate Passes 4 Billion Dollar Farm Measure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Wednesday passed a four-billion dollar farm money bill providing for a $50,000 ceiling on price support benefits. A drive to water down the ceiling fizzled out.

The measure, approved by a roll call vote of 74-10 after two days of debate, now goes to a joint Senate-House conference committee to work out differences with the version passed by the House earlier.

In addition to the four-billion dollars in cash, the bill authorized but did not appropriate $294,315,000 for permanent programs, mainly the purchase of surplus perishable crops, and $421,000,000 for farm electrification and telephone loans.

Republicans cast all 10 votes against the bill, which carried about 106 million dollars less than President Eisenhower requested. But 33 million dollars more than the House provided. Voting for the measure were 52 Democrats and 22 Republicans.

Final debate was marked by a burst of Democratic irritation over recent GOP charges that Congress is to blame for failing to curb the accumulation of farm surpluses, thereby running up costs to taxpayers.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) said the blame rested with Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson who is supporting prices of corn and some other crops without imposing production controls.

He offered an amendment to ban supports on crops which are in surplus unless production controls also are ordered. His proposal was ruled out of order.

The Senate rejected 48-37 an attempt by Sen. John J. Williams (R-Del.) to cut funds for the soil bank conservation reserve program from 450 million to 375 million dollars, as sought by Eisenhower.

Navy Academy Sends Six New Officers Into Army

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Naval Academy Wednesday graduated its 119th class and for the first time in history sent new officers into all four branches of the armed services.

The Army got six new officers from its rival institution and extended them a nautical "welcome aboard" through Lt. Gen. James F. Collins, who also swore them in as second lieutenants in the history making ceremony. Gen. Collins is the Army's deputy chief of staff for personnel.

The others went into the Marine Corps and Air Force — which traditionally receive a percentage of the graduates — and, of course, the Navy, which gets a lion's share each year.

A crowd of 10,600 filled the Naval Academy Field House to witness the graduation, climaxed by the sailing of 795 white hats to the roof and into the hands of spectators for souvenirs.

William B. Franke, confirmed Tuesday as the new secretary of the Navy, remarked on interservice rivalry and unification in his address to the graduating class.

"As you move upward you will find service competing against service," he said. "This is good—between advocacy and loyalty . . . later as you move to the policy-making levels of your services, you must find a way to advance the policies of your service and at the same time to subordinate this aggressive spirit to inter-service cooperation when necessary for the good of the country."

Franke handed diplomas personally to the 107 members of the class graduating with distinction. They were led by Stanley Wayne Legro, 22, of Houston, Texas, who graduated at the head of the class.

Nicaraguan Troops Keep Watch For New Invasion

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Luis Somoza's armed forces watched Nicaragua's borders grimly Wednesday for new invasions by land, sea and air.

Three schooner loads of men and arms were reported—without any confirmation — sailing from Cuba to reinforce the 75 or more rebels who landed by plane from Costa Rica last weekend.

A Costa Rican commercial airliner was forced to land at Puerto Cabezas Wednesday when Nicaraguan air force planes found it flying over the country without justification, the government said. It was released after a brief inspection.

Nicaragua appealed to the Council of the Organization of American States in Washington for action against invasion of its territory. The council delayed a decision until Thursday.

Managua itself was calm despite a general air of tension. A three-day-old general strike against the Somoza regime faded out almost completely.

The government said the original airborne invading force is being routed and is abandoning its arms in the fighting areas in the provinces of Chontales and Matagalpa.

The War Ministry denied rebel reports from Costa Rica of armed clashes in Telica in the province of Leon.

Speedy Vigilante Jet Crashes; Pilot Safe

COLUMBUS (UPI) — A multi-million dollar A3J Vigilante jet fighter bomber, believed to be the fastest plane in the world, crashed on a farm near here today.

H.Z. Hopkins, Parmdale, Calif., a North American Aviation test pilot, ejected himself and parachuted to safety. He landed about 300 yards from where the plane tore a huge hole in the farm of Jack Frost, near Columbia station in Licking County.

The plane, capable of speeds reported to range from 1,500 to 2,000 MPH, is the second A3J Vigilante ever produced. Hopkins had taken the plane up on a routine test hop from the airport here. North American has an 80 million dollar contract to produce the planes for the Navy.

The 160-pound plastic capsule, shaped like an ice cream cone with the tip rounded off, contains everything the mice need to survive in space for several days.

The 78-foot rocket — a Thor IRBM first stage and Bell-Hustler second stage—rose vertically from its pad at the ocean's edge and nosed over gradually toward the south.

Like earlier Discoverers, it was aimed for orbit around the poles. Discoverer III's goal: an orbit every 94 minutes, with high point of 480 miles and low of 140, at a speed of 18,000 miles. The satellite part is the entire 1,600-pound second stage.

Prelude To Man In Space

This wasn't the first mouse trip into space. Others have been sent up from Cape Canaveral, Fla., but they were not intended to orbit, and the nose cones in which they rode were not recovered.

On May 28, the Army fired two monkeys into space and recovered them alive and well after a 1,500-mile ride from Cape Canaveral. They were the first animals this country has retrieved alive from space.

The mice, like the monkeys, are making the trips as a prelude to man's venture into space.

The thrice-delayed launching was at 1:09 p. m. in perfect weather. Sunny skies had replaced morning overcast.

Plans were for the capsule to be ejected 26 hours after launching on the satellite's 17th pass, over a 50x200-mile area, 700 miles north of Hawaii. Eight C119 Flying Boxcars, trailing trapeze-like devices, hoped to snag the capsule's chute. If they missed, destroyers would try to fish it from the sea. Odds on successful recovery were reckoned at 700 to 1.

Four Convicts Saw Way Out Of Iowa Prison

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP)—Four skinny prisoners sawed and wriggled their way out of the rock-walled Iowa Penitentiary Wednesday in a skillful 90-minute operation.

The four made a successful escape while prison officials were getting an "all is well" wave from Lawrence W. Smith, 53, night captain in cellblock 19.

Smith and guard Larry H. Pickard, 60, both armed only with night sticks because they were stationed inside the cellblock, were overpowered at knifepoint.

The captain had detected the breakout at 12:25 a.m. when he heard Robert Janes, 24, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, on the walkway outside his second-tier cell.

Almost simultaneously Albert M. Boerger, 26, of Kansas City, caught Pickard by surprise in a different part of the building and then Lloyd Woodson, 38, of Quincy, Ill., and Elun Girdler Jr., 23, of Peoria, Ill., came out of their cells.

Before Smith was taken he had pushed an alarm button, but he was forced immediately to call the deputy warden's office and say he had accidentally hit the button and to disregard the warning signal.

Pickard was bound with twine and Smith was directed to acknowledge to a guard who came to a door outside the cellblock every 20 minutes that everything was all right.

Meantime, the convicts cut through two 1½-inch-thick steel bars on an unscreened window on an outside wall. They forced the 18-inch bars down, squirmed through the narrow opening and dropped about 10 feet to the ground. They climbed an eight-foot wire fence and disappeared into a hilly, wooded area.

Warden John Bennett said the four had cut two steel bars on the doors of their individual cells over a period of several days. He theorized they might have used power saw blades which fellow convicts could have smuggled out of the machine shop. The cutting instruments have not been found, he said.

Ike Declares:

Geneva Results Do Not Justify Summit Party

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prospects for a summit meeting darkened Wednesday when President Eisenhower said progress made so far at Geneva would not warrant his going to a parley of the great powers' leaders.

Eisenhower told a news conference he sought no more from the three-week-old Geneva meeting of foreign ministers than "a decent working paper" on which leaders of the Soviet and the Western Big Three could go to work this summer.

But, he added: "No, there has not been any detectable progress that to my mind would justify the holding of a summit meeting."

The least to be expected from the Soviet Union, he stipulated, is a clear commitment now that the rights of the Western powers in Berlin will be respected until a reunified Germany can assume control of the divided city.

The summit question opened the news conference—the first one held by Eisenhower since the Geneva talks began. It was followed by a wide-ranging barrage of queries on home front and military problems.

The President ducked none of them. He said:

1. It is completely untrue that he has stepped in on the side of management in the steel wage negotiations. The deadlock, if continued, could bring a nationwide steelworkers strike July 1.

Eisenhower was accused on Sunday by President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of throwing the weight of his prestige against the United Steelworkers' demands, and a newsman asked for a reply.

2. The administration shortly will ask Congress to raise the ceiling on the 286-billion-dollar federal debt, and perhaps—to ease the Treasury's borrowing problem—to boost the 4¼ per cent limit on the interest rate on government bonds.

He acknowledged he discussed the debt dilemma Monday at a White House meeting with Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson and congressional leaders of both parties.

3. It would be tragic, Eisenhower said, if the issue of anti-Semitism should be injected seriously into the Senate battle over confirmation of Lewis L. Strauss as secretary of commerce. Strauss is a Jew.

In response to another question, Eisenhower conceded it would be strange if any individual were admired and respected by everyone in the world, "so I suppose there is some room for honest difference of opinion" about Strauss.

4. Eisenhower said Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy will complete within about 10 days an exhaustive weapons study which may settle the Army-Air Force squabble over missiles.

The President said he did not believe he personally would be obliged to make a decision on priority between the Army's Nike-Hercules and the Air Force Bomarc.

Long's Speedy Recovery Seen

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Gov. Earl K. Long of Louisiana—boiling mad at being declared mentally ill—was promised by a physician Wednesday that he stood a good chance to get well within three months.

This was told The Associated Press by attending physicians in the psychiatric clinic of John Sealy Hospital who did not want to be identified.

This informal prediction threw into still greater confusion the Louisiana political picture. Gov. Long has until Sept. 15 to resign his office and file for the Democratic primary to succeed himself, a plan he announced some weeks ago.

Clinic physicians said Gov. Long is not violent and "is very clear in his thinking and speaking."

There were signs the governor was being kept advised of political developments in Louisiana, where the powerful Long machine has been running on momentum and committee action.

In an exclusive interview with The Associated Press, the governor's sister, Mrs. W. M. Knott of Many, La., said:

Senate Passes 4 Billion Dollar Farm Measure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Wednesday passed a four-billion dollar farm money bill providing for a $50,000 ceiling on price support benefits. A drive to water down the ceiling fizzled out.

The measure, approved by a roll call vote of 74-10 after two days of debate, now goes to a joint Senate-House conference committee to work out differences with the version passed by the House earlier.

In addition to the four-billion dollars in cash, the bill authorized but did not appropriate $294,315,000 for permanent programs, mainly the purchase of surplus perishable crops, and $421,000,000 for farm electrification and telephone loans.

Republicans cast all 10 votes against the bill, which carried about 106 million dollars less than President Eisenhower requested. But 33 million dollars more than the House provided. Voting for the measure were 52 Democrats and 22 Republicans.

Final debate was marked by a burst of Democratic irritation over recent GOP charges that Congress is to blame for failing to curb the accumulation of farm surpluses, thereby running up costs to taxpayers.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) said the blame rested with Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson who is supporting prices of corn and some other crops without imposing production controls.

He offered an amendment to ban supports on crops which are in surplus unless production controls also are ordered. His proposal was ruled out of order.

The Senate rejected 48-37 an attempt by Sen. John J. Williams (R-Del.) to cut funds for the soil bank conservation reserve program from 450 million to 375 million dollars, as sought by Eisenhower.

Navy Academy Sends Six New Officers Into Army

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Naval Academy Wednesday graduated its 119th class and for the first time in history sent new officers into all four branches of the armed services.

The Army got six new officers from its rival institution and extended them a nautical "welcome aboard" through Lt. Gen. James F. Collins, who also swore them in as second lieutenants in the history making ceremony. Gen. Collins is the Army's deputy chief of staff for personnel.

The others went into the Marine Corps and Air Force — which traditionally receive a percentage of the graduates — and, of course, the Navy, which gets a lion's share each year.

A crowd of 10,600 filled the Naval Academy Field House to witness the graduation, climaxed by the sailing of 795 white hats to the roof and into the hands of spectators for souvenirs.

William B. Franke, confirmed Tuesday as the new secretary of the Navy, remarked on interservice rivalry and unification in his address to the graduating class.

"As you move upward you will find service competing against service," he said. "This is good—between advocacy and loyalty . . . later as you move to the policy-making levels of your services, you must find a way to advance the policies of your service and at the same time to subordinate this aggressive spirit to inter-service cooperation when necessary for the good of the country."

Franke handed diplomas personally to the 107 members of the class graduating with distinction. They were led by Stanley Wayne Legro, 22, of Houston, Texas, who graduated at the head of the class.

Steel Union Board Called To Meeting

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel union officers summoned the union's 33-member executive board to a meeting Thursday to talk over stalemated wage contract negotiations.

The call came as negotiations passed the halfway point between their beginning May 5 and the expiration date of the present three-year contract June 30.

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America, said he did not know whether the board would call for a meeting of the union's 171-member wage policy committee.

Nicaraguan Troops Keep Watch For New Invasion

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Luis Somoza's armed forces watched Nicaragua's borders grimly Wednesday for new invasions by land, sea and air.

Three schooner loads of men and arms were reported—without any confirmation — sailing from Cuba to reinforce the 75 or more rebels who landed by plane from Costa Rica last weekend.

A Costa Rican commercial airliner was forced to land at Puerto Cabezas Wednesday when Nicaraguan air force planes found it flying over the country without justification, the government said. It was released after a brief inspection.

Nicaragua appealed to the Council of the Organization of American States in Washington for action against invasion of its territory. The council delayed a decision until Thursday.

Managua itself was calm despite a general air of tension. A three-day-old general strike against the Somoza regime faded out almost completely.

The government said the original airborne invading force is being routed and is abandoning its arms in the fighting areas in the provinces of Chontales and Matagalpa.

The War Ministry denied rebel reports from Costa Rica of armed clashes in Telica in the province of Leon.

Speedy Vigilante Jet Crashes; Pilot Safe

COLUMBUS (UPI) — A multi-million dollar A3J Vigilante jet fighter bomber, believed to be the fastest plane in the world, crashed on a farm near here today.

H.Z. Hopkins, Parmdale, Calif., a North American Aviation test pilot, ejected himself and parachuted to safety. He landed about 300 yards from where the plane tore a huge hole in the farm of Jack Frost, near Columbia station in Licking County.

The plane, capable of speeds reported to range from 1,500 to 2,000 MPH, is the second A3J Vigilante ever produced. Hopkins had taken the plane up on a routine test hop from the airport here. North American has an 80 million dollar contract to produce the planes for the Navy.

University Protests So Rackets Probers Will Change Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—An agent of the Chicago gangland syndicate operated from an Indiana college campus in trying to gain a gambling and vice monopoly in Porter County, Ind., Senate investigators were told Wednesday.

The college disputed this and the Senate rackets probers agreed to correct the record.

Harold Rayder, chief deputy sheriff of that northwest Indiana county, said Tommy Morgano used as a front a pizza business in the College Inn at Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind.

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz), presiding over the Senate committee hearing, said he wanted to know "how a fellow like this ever got away with operating on any American college campus."

In Valparaiso, Dr. O. P. Kretzmann, president of the university, said the restaurant actually operates on privately owned property across the stree' from a little-used part of the campus. He said he never had known any reason to question its right to operate in that area.

Kretzmann wired the committee saying "the good reputation of Valparaiso University requires correction of the testimony."

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy sent back a telegram promising a prompt correction of the record to show that the university "has no connection or responsibility of any kind for the inn or its management."

Rayder, describing Morgano as an agent of Chicago mobster Sam Giancanna, said Morgano offered to pay him and other Porter County law officers up to half a million dollars in return for solid control of pinball machines and other forms of gambling, prostitution and similar rackets.

"They wanted to move in on the ground floor," Rayder said. He pictured Chicago gangsters as trying to move into the county to capitalize on prosperity growing out of construction of new steel mills.

The hearing also developed more testimony that the prosecutor's office in adjoining Lake County, Ind., gave a lift to the gangland syndicate in driving independent pinball machine operators out of business there.

Meany, Ike At Odds On Labor 'Bill Of Rights'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and AFL-CIO President George Meany agreed Wednesday legislation is needed to combat corruption in labor unions. But they differed sharply on whether "bill of rights" provisions in the Senate-passed bill would harm the unions.

Meany, continuing his fight against these provisions, said the Senate bill would cripple the labor movement and impose the threat of criminal prosecution over routine union practices.

The AFL-CIO leader made a 3½-hour, point-by-point criticism of the bill before a House Labor subcommittee at about the same time Eisenhower was defending it at his news conference.

Eisenhower said the bill "is not any kind of punitive law." He said he was sorry the Senate, before passing the measure, watered down the "bill of rights" provision offered by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark), chairman of the special Senate investigating committee.

Meany told the House subcommittee he could live with the Senate labor bill as written by Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-NC). But he said he would fight the bill of rights and other provisions inserted by the Senate.

British "Flying Saucer" To Be Shown Next Week

COWES, England (AP)—Britain next week takes the secrecy wraps off a strange-looking machine it claims is the first-ever flying saucer—in this world anyhow.

It's the Sea-Saucer, a hybrid aircraft and ship that its designers say could be the forerunner of craft revolutionizing air travel.

This first model is a disc of polished aluminum 30 feet long and 25 feet wide.

The U.S. Army also has revealed before the House Space Committee in Washington, D.C., that it had a similar project—Avrocar — under way to give the United States a flying saucer.

Some heavily censored testimony by Brig. Gen. F. H. Britton, director of developments for the Office of Army Research, released May 28, revealed the Army had spent more than five million dollars on the project in the past five years and that tests on the new vehicle were to begin shortly.

It is designed to rise a few feet off the ground by means of downward air blasts from the bottom or under the edges of the machine.

Last month, the Ford Motor Co. in Detroit also demonstrated its Levacar, a wheel-less, air-propelled car which slides on air about 1-32 of an inch above a metal strip.

Its developer envisions the Levacar as a high-speed ground transportation vehicle between cities such as Detroit and Chicago, skimming over flat rails, like the present railroads at 200 to 500 miles an hour.

Rooney Reveals Mexican Divorce And Marriage

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mickey Rooney said Wednesday he married a blonde starlet in Mexico before his previous wife divorced him in California.

He said he got a Mexican divorce before the Mexican marriage, but declined to say where in Mexico the two actions took place.

He told a newsman happily that Barbara Thomason is the first of his five wives who is shorter than he.

"She suits me," the entertainer said over the telephone from Las Vegas, Nev. He said his bride is 5 feet 2. Rooney, 5 feet 3, has shown a preference for statuesque beauties in his earlier marriages—to Ava Gardner, Betty Jane Rase, Martha Vickers and Elaine Mahnken.

Wife No. 4 won a divorce in Santa Monica only last February. California law requires a one-year wait.

"Elaine gave us permission to get married last December," Rooney said. "We went over the border from Texas to get the divorce in Mexico. It took about five days and then we got married. I wanted Elaine to go through with the California divorce to protect herself."

Mission-Giving Report Heard By Methodists

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP)—A Methodist minister said Wednesday night that giving to missions is the major financial responsibility of churches.

And he reported that the 550 Baltimore Methodist Conference churches had given more than $700,000 to missions around the world during the past year.

Dr. Daniel W. Justice, Baltimore west district superintendent, gave those figures in the composite superintendent's report.

The Baltimore conference opened its annual sessions Wednesday afternoon at Western Maryland College here. A Holy Communion service was held at Baker Memorial Chapel in the afternoon and a business meeting was scheduled at night.

The conference meetings continue through Sunday.

"Generous living and giving for others provides the greatest offensive and defensive weapons against paganism and evil everywhere," said Dr. Justice.

He told of a healthy growth in the conference of several fronts—local churches, missions, institutions and activity by laymen.

The district superintendents have pinpointed places in the Balmore Conference where 78 church structures are needed in the next two years to serve Americans on the move.

Joining the conference churches during the year were 16,554 new members, making a net gain of 8,660 persons, Dr. Justice reported.

Buzzing Of British Aircraft Disclosed

BERLIN (UPI) — Western officials said Wednesday that Soviet jet fighters buzzed two British commercial aircraft last month in the air corridors to Berlin.

A British spokesman said a British European Airways Viscount turbo-prop passenger airliner was buzzed at "dangerously close" range by a Soviet jet May 7. Another Soviet jet buzzed a "Skyways" charter aircraft later in the month, it was reported.

The British protested the buzzing of the Viscount but the Soviets rejected the protest, the British spokesman said.

Rooney Reveals Mexican Divorce And Marriage

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mickey Rooney said Wednesday he married a blonde starlet in Mexico before his previous wife divorced him in California.

He said he got a Mexican divorce before the Mexican marriage, but declined to say where in Mexico the two actions took place.

He told a newsman happily that Barbara Thomason is the first of his five wives who is shorter than he.

"She suits me," the entertainer said over the telephone from Las Vegas, Nev. He said his bride is 5 feet 2, Rooney, 5 feet 3, has shown a preference for statuesque beauties in his earlier marriages —to Ava Gardner, Betty Jane Rase, Martha Vickers and Elaine Mahnken.

Wife No. 4 won a divorce in Santa Monica only last February. California law requires a one-year wait.

"Elaine gave us permission to get married last December," Rooney said. "We went over the border from Texas to get the divorce in Mexico. It took about five days and then we got married. I wanted Elaine to go through with the California divorce to protect herself."

Mission-Giving Report Heard By Methodists

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP)—A Methodist minister said Wednesday night that giving to missions is the major financial responsibility of churches.

And he reported that the 550 Baltimore Methodist Conference churches had given more than $700,000 to missions around the world during the past year.

Dr. Daniel W. Justice, Baltimore west district superintendent, gave those figures in the composite superintendent's report.

The Baltimore conference opened its annual sessions Wednesday afternoon at Western Maryland College here. A Holy Communion service was held at Baker Memorial Chapel in the afternoon and a business meeting was scheduled at night.

The conference meetings continue through Sunday.

"Generous living and giving for others provides the greatest offensive and defensive weapons against paganism and evil everywhere," said Dr. Justice.

He told of a healthy growth in the conference of several fronts—local churches, missions, institutions and activity by laymen.

The district superintendents have pinpointed places in the Baltimore Conference where 78 church structures are needed in the next two years to serve Americans on the move.

Joining the conference churches during the year were 16,554 new members, making a net gain of 8,660 persons, Dr. Justice reported.

Some $7,982,000 was spent for construction, building and debt reduction in the churches.

In talking to newsmen, he did not elaborate on the differences or list the issues.

Buzzing Of British Aircraft Disclosed

BERLIN (UPI) — Western officials said Wednesday that Soviet jet fighters buzzed two British commercial aircraft last month in the air corridors to Berlin.

A British spokesman said a British European Airways Viscount turbo-prop passenger airliner was buzzed at "dangerously close" range by a Soviet jet May 7. Another Soviet jet buzzed a "Skyways" charter aircraft later in the month, it was reported.

The British protested the buzzing of the Viscount but the Soviets rejected the protest, the British spokesman said.

Blue Cross Probe Urged

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Legislative Council was urged Wednesday to investigate the Blue Cross plan in view of its recent request for another increase in rates.

Sen. Joseph A. Bertorelli (D-1st-Balto) suggested the probe, and it was added to the council's agenda for assignment to a committee.

Bertorelli also asked that the State Insurance Department postpone a decision on the Blue Cross petition for higher rates until the legislative study is completed.

John H. Coppage, deputy insurance commissioner, replied that it would be impossible to delay a decision for a long period because the Blue Cross would be insolvent by the end of the year unless part of its request for a 24.5 per cent rate hike is granted.

Bertorelli pointed out that a General Assembly committee held hearings last year when Blue Cross sought a 22 per cent rate increase but they were inconclusive because they were held during a busy period of the Legislature.

The senator suggested, among other things, that the Blue Cross and its member hospitals keep costs down to a reasonable level and eliminate some of the services the insurance organization now offers.

150 Get Degrees At Mt. St. Mary's

EMMITTSBURG, Md. (AP) — The "worst obstacle" which the present generation has placed in its own path is concentration on personal security, the Mount St. Mary's College graduating class was told Wednesday.

J. Francies Reilly, Washington attorney, said "this concentration is particularly unfortunate in light of the infinite challenges, opportunities and the new and great economic, industrial, social and moral frontiers which are opening all over the world."

The school awarded degrees to 150 graduates and presented a special citation to Archbishop Francis P. Keough of Baltimore in honor of his 25 years as a bishop.

Honorary degrees also were awarded Reilly, John V. Morgan, New York businessman; Thomas L. Golibart, Detroit industrialist; the Rt. Rev. Francis A. Costello of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; the Rev. Thomas Barrett of Schenectady, N.Y., and actress Ann Blyth.

Archbishop Keough blessed the Thomas W. Pangborn Memorial Room in the college dormitory. It was named in honor of the Hagerstown businessman.

Virginia Board To Sue Viscose In Death Of Fish

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The State Water Control Board said Wednesday it would sue American Viscose Corp. of Front Royal for damages incurred when an estimated one half million game fish were killed in the South Fork of the Shenandoah River.

The water board earlier had fined the company for $154,770 when it ruled that the kill was caused by wastes dumped into the river by the plant.

The company, in a letter to the board Tuesday, said it "is advised and believes that it is not responsible for the fish kill." The report said further that the company cannot guarantee that additional pollution of the river may not develop.

The board's statement, released by lawyer R. A. Wright, said:

"The board in session yesterday authorized its executive secretary (A. H. Paessler) to bring a civil action in the name of the board to recover from American Viscose the replacement value of the fish. . ."

3 Sentenced In Abortion Case

CHESTERTOWN, Md. (AP) — Three-year prison terms and $500 fines were handed down Wednesday to a woman and three men who admitted trying to get around the state's abortion laws.

The sentences were passed by the three-judges who heard the case without a jury, although Judge Edward D. E. Rollins dissented, saying the penalties should have been stiffer. With him on the bench were Chief Judge J. DeWeese Carter and Associate Judge Thomas J. Keating.

Mrs. Ruth Thrift, 52, of Church Hill; Stephen S. Hickman, 39, of Baltimore, and Albert C. Young, 32, Chestertown painting contractor, entered guilty pleas Tuesday to the charges.

Mrs. Thrift was accused of committing abortion and conspiring to commit abortion. The two men were charged with conspiring with her. Mrs. Thrift was given two three-year terms, with the two terms to run concurrently.

Tuesday the prosecution described Hickman, a truck driver, as the one who procured the women for abortions and Young as the one who supplied a make-shift operating room — his office on the public square.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Joseph S. L. Speaks, 22, Negro, was killed early Wednesday when a car he was trying to repair was hit from behind by another automobile on Ritchie Highway.

John B. Walls, 33, Negro, of Baltimore, the driver of the other auto, was charged with reckless driving and manslaughter.

Iran's Khaneh Village Key Spot Today

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Astride the historic route used by the invading Mongol Hordes of Genghis Khan eight centuries ago, Khaneh is part of the area of northwest Iran where Moscow once tried to install a satellite Kurd republic.

But for a series of Soviet blunders in the Stalin era much of this area might be Communist today. There would be no question of establishing a corridor to Iraq and the Middle East. It would be in existence.

The United States is betting huge sums the Soviets won't try again either to dominate Kurdistan or set up a satellite Azerbaijan republic as they did in 1946.

Just outside Khaneh's village limits is an important key to a chain of Iranian military bases being built swiftly by American money and construction know-how.

There is little notion that the Iranian army would be any match for invading Soviets. But the permanent presence of Iranian military in force in the Kurd area of Azerbaijan Province apparently is intended to discourage Soviet use of subversion to shake northwest Iran out of a Western alliance and give Moscow access by land to the Middle East.

Kurds, once easily stirred by outside influences, seem just a little stunned by the magnitude and suddenness of this hive of activity in their midst. But the khans—local chiefs—and their tribal followers have given their blessing to the American-financed program.

What goes on here is part of a 76-million-dollar program to set up a chain of 10 Iranian military bases, financed by the U.S. military assistance program and directed by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The total of military aid allotted for Iran to date is about 280 million dollars, of which more than 250 million already has been committed. The amount currently available for economic and technical assistance under the international cooperation program is more than 101 million dollars.

This adds up to one of the largest U.S. military and economic aid programs in the world. An important part of it concerns rapid construction of bases for the Iranian army.

Target date for the program's completion in the Khaneh area is December 1959, and for the whole program, about October 1960. When the job is done, Iran's army will have a chain of permanent, modern divisional, regimental, battalion and company installations in western, northern and northwestern Iran, all the way from Lake Rezaiyeh in the northwest to Dezful in Khuzestan Province.

The locations are significant. These are the areas most exposed to disruptive outside influences which could be exploited by Communist political power.

The violin, considered by many to be the most important instrument in a modern orchestra, was not really perfected until the 17th century.

Grads Today, Unlike In 1934, Can Play Field

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The announcement was simple — and shocking.

"Dear graduate," said the alumni bulletin from the University of Missouri, "Your class is holding its 25th reunion, and we're sure —."

Impossible! 25th reunion? Must be a mixup in names.

How can it be 25 years? Too many dreams remain uncashed.

Gradually common sense, and common arithmetic, prevailed.

Time, that unrelenting thief, has indeed stolen a quarter of a century from the class of 1934.

Now the papers are filled with eager pleas to the young: "Our laboratory needs imaginative engineers." "Success therapy is here." "Excellent opportunities."

Graduates, or so it seems to us of 1934, can play the field as cooly as a good looking debutante who has just inherited a million dollars.

Well, Junior, it wasn't exactly like that in daddy's day. Not in the Middle West at least. And especially not for the fledgling newspaperman.

I disremember how many were graduated in journalism 25 years ago, but it was around 115. I don't know how many got jobs in newspapering, but it was approximately three. These were the resourceful, dynamic youngsters who had the foresight to have a parent who was an editor or advertising manager.

The rest of us did the best we could, an odd job here, an odder job there. Some, like me, took the coward's way and stayed in school, further qualifying ourselves for professions that hadn't shown the slightest interest in us.

Know what the most frightening word was to a college man of 1934? It was "experience." You had to have a job before you could get one.

Well, things picked up. Next year there was an offer from the Daily Oklahoman in Oklahoma City. It was $17 a week, and I thought I had hit the mother lode.

It's unkind to bring this up while we're holding our 25th reunion, but it has seemed to me we're the most undistinguished class in history.

It can't be proved, but there are reasons to support such a theory.

Some of us never got the jobs for which we had trained. Some of us got jobs, but not the ones for which we were best suited. Even the lucky ones, those of us who got what we wanted, carried a handicap.

We are too scared of depression fever. We keep thinking prosperity can't last. We're too cautious. We are the timid generation.

And so, to the young graduates gaily sorting job offers: good luck. May the memories of long lines of men hunting work never haunt you.

Planes For French

METZ, France (UPI) — Royal Canadian Air Force officials said here Tuesday that Canada would turn over 25 transport planes to France and Portugal shortly as part of a mutual aid program.

The authorities said the Beechcraft Expeditor transports would arrive at nearby Marville Air Station shortly. Nineteen of the aircraft will go to France and six to Portugal.

Truck Plunge Kills 11

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — Eleven persons were killed and nine injured seriously Tuesday when the brakes failed on a heavily-laden farm truck, sending it careening down a mountain highway and into the Rimac River.

Iran's Khaneh Village Key Spot Today

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Astride the historic route used by the invading Mongol Hordes of Genghis Khan eight centuries ago, Khaneh is part of the area of northwest Iran where Moscow once tried to install a satellite Kurd republic.

But for a series of Soviet blunders in the Stalin era much of this area might be Communist today. There would be no question of establishing a corridor to Iraq and the Middle East. It would be in existence.

The United States is betting huge sums the Soviets won't try again either to dominate Kurdistan or set up a satellite Azerbaijan republic as they did in 1946.

Just outside Khaneh's village limits is an important key to a chain of Iranian military bases being built swiftly by American money and construction know-how.

There is little notion that the Iranian army would be any match for invading Soviets. But the permanent presence of Iranian military in force in the Kurd area of Azerbaijan Province apparently is intended to discourage Soviet use of subversion to shake northwest Iran out of a Western alliance and give Moscow access by land to the Middle East.

Kurds, once easily stirred by outside influences, seem just a little stunned by the magnitude and suddenness of this hive of activity in their midst. But the khans—local chiefs—and their tribal followers have given their blessing to the American-financed program.

What goes on here is part of a 76-million-dollar program to set up a chain of 10 Iranian military bases, financed by the U.S. military assistance program and directed by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The total of military aid allotted for Iran to date is about 280 million dollars, of which more than 250 million already has been committed. The amount currently available for economic and technical assistance under the international cooperation program is more than 101 million dollars.

This adds up to one of the largest U.S. military and economic aid programs in the world. An important part of it concerns rapid construction of bases for the Iranian army.

Target date for the program's completion in the Khaneh area is December 1959, and for the whole program, about October 1960. When the job is done, Iran's army will have a chain of permanent, modern divisional, regimental, battalion and company installations in western, northern and northwestern Iran, all the way from Lake Rezaiyeh in the northwest to Dezful in Khuzestan Province.

The locations are significant. These are the areas most exposed to disruptive outside influences which could be exploited by Communist political power.

The violin, considered by many to be the most important instrument in a modern orchestra, was not really perfected until the 17th century.

Grads Today, Unlike In 1934, Can Play Field

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The announcement was simple -- and shocking.

"Dear graduate," said the alumni bulletin from the University of Missouri, "Your class is holding its 25th reunion, and we're sure —."

Impossible! 25th reunion? Must be a mixup in names.

How can it be 25 years? Too many dreams remain uncashed.

Gradually common sense, and common arithmetic, prevailed.

Time, that unrelenting thief, has indeed stolen a quarter of a century from the class of 1934.

Now the papers are filled with eager pleas to the young: "Our laboratory needs imaginative engineers." "Success therapy is here." "Excellent opportunities."

Graduates, or so it seems to us of 1934, can play the field as cooly as a good looking debutante who has just inherited a million dollars.

Well, Junior, it wasn't exactly like that in daddy's day. Not in the Middle West at least. And especially not for the fledgling newspaperman.

I disremember how many were graduated in journalism 25 years ago, but it was around 115. I don't know how many got jobs in newspapering, but it was approximately three. These were the resourceful, dynamic youngsters who had the foresight to have a parent who was an editor or advertising manager.

The rest of us did the best we could, an odd job here, an odder job there. Some, like me, took the coward's way and stayed in school, further qualifying ourselves for professions that hadn't shown the slightest interest in us.

Know what the most frightening word was to a college man of 1934? It was "experience." You had to have a job before you could get one.

Well, things picked up. Next year there was an offer from the Daily Oklahoman in Oklahoma City. It was $17 a week, and I thought I had hit the mother lode.

It's unkind to bring this up while we're holding our 25th reunion, but it has seemed to me we're the most undistinguished class in history.

It can't be proved, but there are reasons to support such a theory.

Some of us never got the jobs for which we had trained. Some of us got jobs, but not the ones for which we were best suited. Even the lucky ones, those of us who got what we wanted, carried a handicap.

We are too scared of depression fever. We keep thinking prosperity can't last. We're too cautious. We are the timid generation.

And so, to the young graduates gaily sorting job offers: good luck. May the memories of long lines of men hunting work never haunt you.

Planes For French

METZ, France (UPI) — Royal Canadian Air Force officials said here Tuesday that Canada would turn over 25 transport planes to France and Portugal shortly as part of a mutual aid program.

The authorities said the Beechcraft Expeditor transports would arrive at nearby Marville Air Station shortly. Nineteen of the aircraft will go to France and six to Portugal.

Truck Plunge Kills 11

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — Eleven persons were killed and nine injured seriously Tuesday when the brakes failed on a heavily-laden farm truck, sending it careening down a mountain highway and into the Rimac River.

Two Persons Sentenced In Circuit Court Here

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday sentenced two travelers in Circuit Court to prison terms, one for violation of parole and the other for breaking and entering a local service station.

Ellis H. Shifflett, 30, formerly of this city who has been residing in Baltimore, was given 18 months in the House of Correction for breaking into the Gulf Service Station, corner of North Mechanic and Market streets. He took a wrist watch and a knife.

Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, gave the court the details of the case from a criminal information which had been filed in the case. Mason said Shifflett has a record dating back to 1944 (including violations while in military service).

In the second case, Florence Etta Edwards, 20, of Baltimore, who was returned here for violation of parole imposed last October, was sentenced to the Maryland State Reformatory for Females.

Mason told the court that the State Board of Parole and Probation reported that the young woman, who was paroled by Judge Harris last October for her part in the stealing of a safe from the Mason Snack Bar on Baltimore Pike, had been evasive and had violated various regulations of her parole.

LaVale Firemen Answer Alarm

LaVale Volunteer Fire Company was called to Allegany Grove at 12:55 a. m. yesterday when a truck was reported on fire.

James Loar, fire chief, said the driver had left the 1959 pickup truck with Ohio plates, and had removed the battery from it.

He said the radiator was boiling over and there was much steam, but no fire was found. State Police said a witness saw the driver leave the truck and be picked up by another truck heading for Cumberland.

Police said the vehicle was not on the stolen car list.

Commissioner To Meet With Water Workers

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light has scheduled two meetings this week with employes under his supervision, the first of which will be held this evening in the office of Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

Commissioner Light said today's meeting, scheduled for 8 p. m., was requested by Water Department personnel to discuss various items of business. This will include a proposed wage increase, submitted earlier to the Mayor and Council, and reclassification of personnel.

The reclassification issue is especially pertinent, the commissioner pointed out, since the department has purchased equipment for work which formerly was done by machines which were rented on a contract basis.

The other meeting, for which no definite time has been set, will be held with employes of the filtration plant, Light stated.

The primary purpose of this meeting will be to introduce Franklin J. Blaney, the city's new sanitary engineer, who will have overall charge of the filtration plant.

Commissioner Light said he will outline the chain of command by which he wants the group to operate. The supervisory obligations of the section heads and duties of each employe will be spelled out, he added, so that dissension will be kept at a minimum.

No changes in the operation of the filtration plant are anticipated, Light continued. C. L. Brotemarkle will continue as assistant superintendent of the filtration plant, and Ray Nixon will remain as foreman of the maintenance section.

Blaney will reside at a city-owned residence at Lake Gordon while he is the city's sanitary engineer. His duties will include supervision of the city's sewage disposal plant.

B&O Employe Here Given Promotion

Robert W. Breiner, 912 Bedford Street, assistant to the Cumberland Division engineer for the B&O Railroad, has been promoted to assistant Indianapolis Division engineer.

Breiner, a native of Baltimore, joined the railroad in August 1955 as a draftsman. He took the B&O technical trainee course and came here last year.

St. Peter's church, in Zurich, Switzerland, has the largest clock dial in Europe.

Rail Brotherhood Head Defends Unions

Van H. Parsons, this city, general chairman for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen on the Western Maryland Railway system, yesterday said the public should be informed of some of the facts that lie behind charges of "featherbedding" made against railroad brotherhoods.

Parsons' remarks were made after the last meeting of William R. Durbin Lodge, BRT, in Ridgeley lodgerooms and followed a speech made here by a U. S. Chamber of Commerce official.

Gerald W. Collins, manager of the transportation and communication department of the U. S. C. of C., spoke here at a dinner sponsored by the Tri-State Traffic Club, the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and the Railroad Community Committee of Baltimore.

Collins charged that railroads are hobbled by outmoded and debilitating work rules, which he termed "featherbedding, or pay for work not performed."

Parsons said yesterday that these remarks by Collins, which follow the nationwide campaign of the Association of American Railroads, are for the purpose of unique in industry, he asserted. some cases crews stay at these 000, a $34,000,000 increase over the same period last year.

Apparently the national C. of C. official does not know or understand the principles or facts of railroad work rules or unions, he charged.

Parsons declared that the public should be informed of the brotherhood's position in these drastic charges of "pay for work not performed."

Road crews on railroads have the "distinction," he said, of working Saturday, Sunday, holidays and night shifts without receiving premium pay. This is unique in industry, he asserted.

When crews are required to lay away from home at the opposite terminal of their runs, they are not paid any away-from-home expense. They have to make themselves available for a call at any hour, not knowing when they will be summoned, and in some cases crews stay at these away from home terminals for as long as 16 hours, Parsons said.

Also, he continued, road operating crews receive no premium pay for work after eight hours per day or 40 hours per week—at night, on holidays or on Sundays. They can work an unlimited number of hours at any time without premium pay so long as the speed of their train does not fall below an average of 12½ miles per hour for freight service or 20 miles an hour for passenger service.

Yard service employes, who perform switching of trains in terminals in all kinds of weather, —snow, rain or below zero, also receive no premium pay for night work, Saturday or Sunday, he added.

Parsons then said "time paid for but not worked" as charged by the Chamber of Commerce official certainly does not mean all the hours railroad workers must put in without pay.

It does not cover the railroad worker who has no night differential, no pay or expenses away from home, and no premium pay for Sundays and holidays.

The railroads, Parsons declared, actually save money under the present work rules. For instance, he continued, the Western Maryland run between Cumberland and Elkins may total 132 miles, and crews are required to work ten hours, 34 minutes before overtime begins.

It would not seem that railroads are "hobbled by union work rules," Parsons observed, as the net income for the first three months of 1959 was $99,000,000, $34,000,000 increase over the same period last year.

In addition, between 1955 and 1957 the railroad industry added 190 new top officials, and cut the number of other rail employes from 1,041,792 to 969,737.

At the same time, he continued, the total outlay for officials' salaries was increased by $21,800,000, reaching a high of $180,900,000 annually.

"As the facts are known about railroad wages and working conditions, it becomes clearer that if there is any featherbedding on the railroads it is almost entirely in the management circle," he said.

And he concluded by stating that "it might be constructive for representatives of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and other national organizations to try working jointly with labor instead of condemning it in favor of management at every opportunity."

Commissioner To Meet With Water Workers

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light has scheduled two meetings this week with employes under his supervision, the first of which will be held this evening in the office of Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

Commissioner Light said today's meeting, scheduled for 8 p. m., was requested by Water Department personnel to discuss various items of business. This will include a proposed wage increase, submitted earlier to the Mayor and Council, and reclassification of personnel.

The reclassification issue is especially pertinent, the commissioner pointed out, since the department has purchased equipment for work which formerly was done by machines which were rented on a contract basis.

The other meeting, for which no definite time has been set, will be held with employes of the filtration plant, Light stated.

The primary purpose of this meeting will be to introduce Franklin J. Blaney, the city's new sanitary engineer, who will have overall charge of the filtration plant.

Commissioner Light said he will outline the chain of command by which he wants the group to operate. The supervisory obligations of the section heads and duties of each employe will be spelled out, he added, so that dissension will be kept at a minimum.

No changes in the operation of the filtration plant are anticipated, Light continued. C. L. Brotemarkle will continue as assistant superintendent of the filtration plant, and Ray Nixon will remain as foreman of the maintenance section.

Blaney will reside at a city-owned residence at Lake Gordon while he is the city's sanitary engineer. His duties will include supervision of the city's sewage disposal plant.

B&O Employe Here Given Promotion

Robert W. Breiner, 912 Bedford Street, assistant to the Cumberland Division engineer for the B&O Railroad, has been promoted to assistant Indianapolis Division engineer.

Breiner, a native of Baltimore, joined the railroad in August 1955 as a draftsman. He took the B&O technical trainee course and came here last year.

Rail Brotherhood Head Defends Unions

Van H. Parsons, this city, general chairman for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen on the Western Maryland Railway system, yesterday said the public should be informed of some of the facts that lie behind charges of "featherbedding" made against railroad brotherhoods.

Parsons' remarks were made after the last meeting of William R. Durbin Lodge, BRT, in Ridgeley lodgerooms and followed a speech made here by a U. S. Chamber of Commerce official.

Gerald W. Collins, manager of the transportation and communication department of the U. S. C. of C., spoke here at a dinner sponsored by the Tri-State Traffic Club, the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and the Railroad Community Committee of Baltimore.

Collins charged that railroads are hobbled by outmoded and debilitating work rules, which he termed "featherbedding, or pay for work not performed."

Parsons said yesterday that these remarks by Collins, which follow the nationwide campaign of the Association of American Railroads, are for the purpose of unique in industry, he asserted. some cases crews stay at these 000, a $34,000,000 increase over the same period last year.

Apparently the national C. of C. official does not know or understand the principles or facts of railroad work rules or unions, he charged.

Parsons declared that the public should be informed of the brotherhood's position in these drastic charges of "pay for work not performed."

Road crews on railroads have the "distinction," he said, of working Saturday, Sunday, holidays and night shifts without receiving premium pay. This is unique in industry, he asserted.

When crews are required to lay away from home at the opposite terminal of their runs, they are not paid any away-from-home expense. They have to make themselves available for a call at any hour, not knowing when they will be summoned, and in some cases crews stay at these away from home terminals for as long as 16 hours, Parsons said.

Also, he continued, road operating crews receive no premium pay for work after eight hours per day or 40 hours per week—at night, on holidays or on Sundays. They can work an unlimited number of hours at any time without premium pay so long as the speed of their train does not fall below an average of 12½ miles per hour for freight service or 20 miles an hour for passenger service.

Yard service employes, who perform switching of trains in terminals in all kinds of weather, —snow, rain or below zero, also receive no premium pay for night work, Saturday or Sunday, he added.

Parsons then said "time paid for but not worked" as charged by the Chamber of Commerce official certainly does not mean all the hours railroad workers must put in without pay.

It does not cover the railroad worker who has no night differential, no pay or expenses away from home, and no premium pay for Sundays and holidays.

The railroads, Parsons declared, actually save money under the present work rules. For instance, he continued, the Western Maryland run between Cumberland and Elkins may total 132 miles, and crews are required to work ten hours, 34 minutes before overtime begins.

It would not seem that railroads are "hobbled by union work rules," Parsons observed, as the net income for the first three months of 1959 was $99,000,000, $34,000,000 increase over the same period last year.

In addition, between 1955 and 1957 the railroad industry added 190 new top officials, and cut the number of other rail employes from 1,041,792 to 969,737.

At the same time, he continued, the total outlay for officials' salaries was increased by $21,800,000, reaching a high of $180,900,000 annually.

"As the facts are known about railroad wages and working conditions, it becomes clearer that if there is any featherbedding on the railroads it is almost entirely in the management circle," he said.

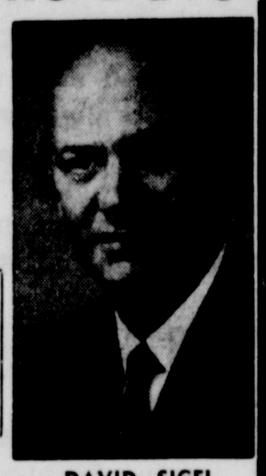

And he concluded by stating that "it might be constructive for representatives of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and other national organizations to try working jointly with labor instead of condemning it in favor of management at every opportunity."

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Teen Special Charm Check-Up

You have quite a reputation as a charmer around school. Dates are no problem. Well, anyway, they never have been. But just recently your unshakable faith in yourself has felt a tremor or two. Why has the phone sulked silently for hours on an occasional week night? Why have you only half an invitation so far to the next big dance? Why do some of your regulars fail to come around so often anymore?

A little self-doubt right now, Miss Teen, is the best thing that can happen to you. Now, while you're still a big success. Your trouble is over-confidence. Let's face it together before things swing in the other direction. You've been pulling the strings too willfully and I'm afraid you've been guilty of carelessness. Let's check up and see.

Do you sound as pleased as you should on the telephone? Or is there a slightly bored note in your voice, indicating that the phone rings so often it's almost a nuisance?

Do you accept a date without hesitation, or stall? Are you vague sometimes, hoping something better will turn up? Do you break dates without sufficient reason?

Do you greet a date at the door with enthusiasm, or drape him in a wet blanket with your indifference? Have you ever slighted your date while you talked and danced with everyone else, to show how popular you were? Have you been almost rude to his friends, or made a play for the other boy on a double date? Do you talk about yourself more than you let him talk about himself? Do you make decisions about where you'll go and insist despite his unwillingness? Do you make it plain when you're not having a good time?

Not now, nor at any other time in your life will there be anything to gain by being high-handed toward anyone who is interested in you or wants to please you. You must be able to handle your popularity or it won't last. Consideration of other people's feelings always comes first. You won't receive flattering attention if you don't give it. Your date is your host and he should be treated like one, and shown that he is both appreciated for himself and for what he does for you. You know all this, and a check-up of bad habits in time should straighten things out.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Teen Special Charm Check-Up

You have quite a reputation as a charmer around school. Dates are no problem. Well, anyway, they never have been. But just recently your unshakable faith in yourself has felt a tremor or two. Why has the phone sulked silently for hours on an occasional week night? Why have you only half an invitation so far to the next big dance? Why do some of your regulars fail to come around so often anymore?

A little self-doubt right now, Miss Teen, is the best thing that can happen to you. Now, while you're still a big success. Your trouble is over-confidence. Let's face it together before things swing in the other direction. You've been pulling the strings too willfully and I'm afraid you've been guilty of carelessness. Let's check up and see.

Do you sound as pleased as you should on the telephone? Or is there a slightly bored note in your voice, indicating that the phone rings so often it's almost a nuisance?

Do you accept a date without hesitation, or stall? Are you vague sometimes, hoping something better will turn up? Do you break dates without sufficient reason?

Do you greet a date at the door with enthusiasm, or drape him in a wet blanket with your indifference? Have you ever slighted your date while you talked and danced with everyone else, to show how popular you were? Have you been almost rude to his friends, or made a play for the other boy on a double date? Do you talk about yourself more than you let him talk about himself? Do you make decisions about where you'll go and insist despite his unwillingness? Do you make it plain when you're not having a good time?

Not now, nor at any other time in your life will there be anything to gain by being high-handed toward anyone who is interested in you or wants to please you. You must be able to handle your popularity or it won't last. Consideration of other people's feelings always comes first. You won't receive flattering attention if you don't give it. Your date is your host and he should be treated like one, and shown that he is both appreciated for himself and for what he does for you. You know all this, and a check-up of bad habits in time should straighten things out.

Town Creek Homemakers Plan Fair Demonstration

The Town Creek Homemakers Club made plans for its participation in demonstration events at the Cumberland Fair at the club's May meeting at the home of Mrs. Ralph Buser.

Mrs. Harvey Johnson opened the meeting with a reading of the thought of the month. The club read the collect and sang the hymn of the month, "Beneath the Cross of Jesus." Mrs. Buser told the history of the hymn.

At roll call, members described their favorite clothing accessories. Mrs. Johnson gave a demonstration on "Accessories, the Spice in Your Wardrobe."

Flower plants and cuttings were exchanged by the members and Mrs. Roy Shryock read a poem contrasting old methods of washing with the use of a modern automatic washing machine.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Johnson on Wednesday, June 24.

Dies In Protest

TOKYO (UPI) — A Buddhist priest on a peace crusade slashed his throat Wednesday in front of the prime minister's residence.

The priest, Hideo Kobayashi, 42, died in a hospital a short time later. A native of atom-bombed Hiroshima, he participated in recent protest demonstrations against use of nuclear weapons and rearmament.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — The grain market was midly irregular today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅛ to up ½; corn up ¼ to 1⅛; oats up ⅜; new oats up ⅛ to ⅝; rye off ⅛ to ⅝; soybeans off ⅝ to up ½.

Wheat trade was slow, and prices held near yesterday's close. There was moderate commission house buying, but little was offered for sale. Buying for export interests was small. Rain fell in the southwestern harvest areas, delaying the combining. Japan bought U.S. western white wheat and Manitoba wheat for August shipment.

Corn prices were firm with old crop contracts showing the most gain. Commission houses bought July, and some commercial buying also was reported. An elevator house bought December, which was sold by local traders. Receipts were light.

Export acceptances on subsidy bids were 342,000 bushels of corn. Other bids were rejected.

Oats were firm in a mixed trade. A cash house bought new September and sold new July. The spot basis was firm.

July rye was firm, and other months were about steady. Soybeans were mixed in a slow trade. Commission houses bought November, and some short covering was observed. A large house sold July, and some selling was against purchases of wheat. Japan bought beans for July shipment.

Lard, oil and meal futures were easier.

Outside markets were mixed. The range:

May Proves Warmer, Drier

Increase in storage at Savage River Reservoir and below average rainfall last month caused a marked reduction in the flow of the Potomac River at Cumberland, the Geological Survey report shows.

A. A. Vickers, engineer in charge here, said the observed mean daily flow of the North Branch during the month was 1,151 cubic feet per second, or 744 million gallons per day.

The daily flow varied between 3,350 cubic feet per second or 2,165 million gallons per day on May 1, and 560 cubic feet per second or 362 million gallons on May 26. The mean daily flow during May represented 70.1 per cent of the 29-year May average.

A seasonal increase in reservoir storage accounted for about 27 cubic feet per second or 17.5 million gallons per day. This is 2.3 per cent of the flow at Cumberland.

Total rainfall here, as reported by the Weather Bureau during the month, was 3.04 inches, or 0.35 inch below the May average. The temperature here averaged 65.2, which is 2.2 degrees above normal for the month.

Damage Suit Is Settled

A suit based on the death of Floyd Berkey, city, was settled in Federal Court for the District of Pennsylvania at Pittsburgh Monday after opening statements had been made to the jury.

The damage action was brought by the widow, June Marion Berkey, 26, of Bowman's Addition, and her five-year-old daughter, Tonya Berkey, the surviving dependents of Berkey.

The suit grew out of the accident which occurred September 23, 1955, while Berkey, 28, at the time, was working on a construction job near Charleroi, Pa., for the Baughman Construction Company of Cumberland.

The defendant firm in the suit was the Rockwell Spring and Axle Company, which was charged with the allegation that death resulted when a payloader which Berkey was operating overturned. It was charged that the payloader had a defective wheel housing manufactured by the Rockwell firm and that it gave way while Berkey was using the machine.

The amount of the settlement was not disclosed. The widow and child were represented by Thomas B. Finan, local attorney, and Thomas R. Eddy, Pittsburgh. The Rockwell firm's attorney was George Y. Myers of Pittsburgh.

funds permit to be put under contract. The result has been a snowballing backlog.

SRC Comptroller Carl Wannen told the commissioners that at the end of last year, for example, 28 million dollars worth of construction — including six millions in the federal interstate system—had been advertised but not awarded.

Wannen also said the cost of the 15-year program originally was estimated at 568 million dollars in 1952 but a 1957 sufficiency study boosted the estimate to 1½ billion dollars.

One of the main jobs of the new department will be to "continuously supervise the road program with special attention to proper coordination and control of financing, engineering, right-of-way acquisition and construction."

Transferred from the full commission to Funk was approval of contractors' subletting some of their work to other contractors—up to 50 per cent allowed by law.

Nine Counties To Take Part

Comptroller Wannen said nine counties had asked to participate in the next series of road bonds—$1,986,000 worth to be issued during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The commission expects to take bids the latter part of July and issue the bonds in August. The bonds are limited to 50 million dollars worth a year and are apportioned — among counties who want to take part — on the basis of road mileage in each county.

Counties pledge their share of the gasoline tax and motor vehicle revenue and the bonds also are secured by credit of the state. The nine counties, with proposed amount of participation, are:

Anne Arundel, $750,000; Calvert, $30,000; Caroline, $50,000; Frederick, $281,000; Garrett, $183,000; Montgomery, $295,000; Queen Annes, $100,000; St. Marys, $88,000; and Washington, $209,000.

The commission also voted to ask for bids on the second issue of state highway construction bonds, 25 million dollars worth to mature between 1962 and 1974.

Drum and bugle corps participating were the Blue Angels of Victory Post 155, American Legion of Westernport, which won first prize of $35 and Fulton Myers Post 153, American Legion, of Cumberland, second prize of $25.

The Barton Hose Company also presented $25 to the Bedford Road volunteers, the company traveling the longest distance, and the auxiliary unit of Bowman's Addition, the best appearing unit, which received $15.

The two-county association awarded the following prizes: Goodwill of Lonaconing, $25 for the most men in line; Frostburg, $25, most men in line with a band; Bowman's Addition, $25, largest percentage of members; and Cresaptown, $25, best appearing fire company.

W.Va. Methodists Vote Change In Pension Fund

BUCKHANNON, W. Va. (UPI) — Some 1,200 delegates attending the 114th annual West Virginia Methodist Conference Wednesday approved a resolution to turn over the state pension fund to the Minister's Reserve Pension fund in Chicago.

The resolution was offered by Dr. Henry R. High, Charleston, executive secretary of Pension Funds Inc., at an opening session.

West Virginia ministers are now paid from annual interest on a $1,250,000 fund plus an amount raised from current income each year. However, the conference noted that it takes $6,817,000 annually to pay the pensions.

Basic Rate $40 Year

Under High's resolution, the conference will turn over the state fund to the national body as a downpayment. The conference then will pay the balance of $5,567,000 plus an annual installment of $284,000 for the next 30 years to cover pension requirements for each year.

The national body will provide a basic pension rate of $40 annually for each year of approved service.

Leon Hickman, Pittsburgh, vice president of Aluminum Co. of America, was guest speaker. Hickman, also a member of the Judicial Council of the Methodist Church, spoke on the experience of the Pittsburgh conference which entered the reserve fund last year.

He said West Virginia and Pittsburgh conferences have now joined with 13 others of the 110 Methodist Conferences in adopting the most enlightened type of pension program existing.

Hickman said pensions were only one part of the problem of proper ministerial support.

Not Enough Ministers

"We laymen are bringing the Methodist Church to the brink of disaster with inadequate ministerial salaries," he declared. "Every year 1,200 Methodist ministers retire and only 800 young men come into the ministry where 2,800 are needed."

Hickman pointed out that a survey showed that two - thirds of America's 200,000 ministers are deeply in debt.

Dr. J. Herbert Parks, superintendent of the Lewisburg District, reported on progress in the 11 districts. Parks said the establishment of a new church raised to 1,443 the number of organized congregations in West Virginia.

He also said that membership dropped 2,510 from last year's total of 211,576. Parks reported that 862 acres for Methodist camp and training center had been purchased in Roane County with a $10,000 gift from the Roane County Chamber of Commerce.

Temperance Resolution

Rev. Joseph Casey, Kingwood, chairman of the section on temperance of board of christian social relations, introduced a three-part resolution concerning liquor. It was adopted by the conference.

The resolution called upon the West Virginia Legislature to reject any new proposal to submit a constitutional amendment to remove the present restrictions on the sale of liquor - by - the -drink, asked the Legislature to establish a permanent commission on alcoholism to sponsor a program of treatment, research and education, and requested all high and junior high schools to comply with present laws that provide for alcohol education.

Several reports are scheduled Thursday during the second day of the session, along with first balloting for ministerial delegates for quadrennial general conference of the general Methodist Church in Denver April, 1960.

The seventh old bird race of the Allegany Racing Pigeon Club, a 225-mile event from Chillicothe, Ohio, proved to be the slowest and hardest race of the present series.

Thirteen lofts with 146 pigeons competed and the returns were scattered. There was little difference in the finish of the first three birds.

Sweitzer, 985.16 yards per minute; Round Trip, also Pear Alley Loft, 984.31 yards per minute; The Checker, Wing Ridge Loft of R. L. May Proves Warmer, Drier

Increase in storage at Savage River Reservoir and below average rainfall last month caused a marked reduction in the flow of the Potomac River at Cumberland, the Geological Survey report shows.

A. A. Vickers, engineer in charge here, said the observed mean daily flow of the North Branch during the month was 1,151 cubic feet per second, or 744 million gallons per day.

The daily flow varied between 3,350 cubic feet per second or 2,165 million gallons per day on May 1, and 560 cubic feet per second or 362 million gallons on May 26. The mean daily flow during May represented 70.1 per cent of the 29-year May average.

A seasonal increase in reservoir storage accounted for about 27 cubic feet per second or 17.5 million gallons per day. This is 2.3 per cent of the flow at Cumberland.

Total rainfall here, as reported by the Weather Bureau during the month, was 3.04 inches, or 0.35 inch below the May average. The temperature here averaged 65.2, which is 2.2 degrees above normal for the month.

Damage Suit Is Settled

A suit based on the death of Floyd Berkey, city, was settled in Federal Court for the District of Pennsylvania at Pittsburgh Monday after opening statements had been made to the jury.

The damage action was brought by the widow, June Marion Berkey, 26, of Bowman's Addition, and her five-year-old daughter, Tonya Berkey, the surviving dependents of Berkey.

The suit grew out of the accident which occurred September 23, 1955, while Berkey, 28, at the time, was working on a construction job near Charleroi, Pa., for the Baughman Construction Company of Cumberland.

The defendant firm in the suit was the Rockwell Spring and Axle Company, which was charged with the allegation that death resulted when a payloader which Berkey was operating overturned. It was charged that the payloader had a defective wheel housing manufactured by the Rockwell firm and that it gave way while Berkey was using the machine.

The amount of the settlement was not disclosed. The widow and child were represented by Thomas B. Finan, local attorney, and Thomas R. Eddy, Pittsburgh. The Rockwell firm's attorney was George Y. Myers of Pittsburgh.

McClellan's Fight For Labor Bill

Senator McClellan of Arkansas has made a strenuous and courageous fight to put effective teeth in the now practically toothless Kennedy-Ervin "labor bill." He deserves credit for his stand. He has made a deep study of the whole field of organized labor, with special reference to the monopolistic phases of union labor practice.

Powerful weapons used by bosses like Reuther and Hoffa come under the general head of intimidation, which is usually brought about by various forms of picketing, boycotting and other devices.

Of course the union lobbyists in Washington cracked the whip over members of the U.S. Senate when votes were taken on amendments offered by McClellan. For convenience they are numbered as follows:

1. To ban organizational picketing unless a majority of employes have expressed an interest in joining a union.

2. To prohibit all secondary boycotts.

3. To let states apply state law in labor disputes in which the NLRB declines to act.

4. The McClellan bill of rights for the union member, with enforcible clauses.

5. A substitute, watered down form of the former, offered by Kuchel and others.

Thirty-six Democrats and one Republican voted across the board for the Kennedy version. Ten Republicans and one Democrat (Lausche of Ohio) voted against Kennedy all the way.

The other 50 voted a mixed ticket, or were absent, or did not vote.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Free Trade Agreement

A graduate of Iona College in New Rochelle, who is an employe of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and therefore should know some economics, wrote me:

". . . What happens to the purchasing power of the worker when his taxes are increased in order for the Government to subsidize those industries which cannot compete with foreign goods? If foreigners cannot sell us goods then they are obviously unable to earn dollars. Assuming a nation, Japan, for instance is indebted to us, how can she earn dollars to repay this debt if we refuse to allow her to sell us textiles and other products which is her sole means of earning dollars which she must have in order to repay the U.S. Such a nation and there are many, due to the fact that we are a creditor nation, is unable to repay her debt to us and it becomes, in effect, a gift, the essence of which was derived from tax dollars, represented mainly by the income tax, the majority of which is taken from the income of wage earners . . ."

This is an interesting thesis, although if carried to its logical conclusion, which is never done, it could make of us a pauper nation with an enormous unemployed population.

The writer of the letter regards a protective tariff, to any degree, a subsidy to industry, not to the entire industry but only to the stockholders thereof. Actually, if an industry is protected, it means that not only the stockholders, but management, the workers, the distributors of goods, etc., benefit.

A price is determined by the cost of production plus overhead plus taxes. In the United States, the principal ingredient in the cost of production is wages—the hourly rate to labor. In steel, for instance, in 1958, the hourly rate in the United States was $2.88; in Japan, in 1957, it was 40.6 cents. Unless some factor offsets this difference, it is not possible for these steels to compete. The assumption might be that American steel is superior; actually steel is steel if it meets the specifications.

Furthermore, the foreign steel might have a government subsidy, which the foreign government sometimes derives from American aid. This gives the foreign manufacturer a double advantage, namely, he is helped by his government and the American taxpayer pays for the help.

There is no country on Earth today which has a free market and there are many countries which subsidize exports with the object of getting "hard currency," namely American dollars. Because of high wages and high taxes, American goods are actually outpriced in many markets.

Another problem that faces the American manufacturer is that he has no way of calculating his competitor's price when the competitor is Soviet Russia or its satellites.

For instance, the Skoda Works in Czechoslovakia is a competitor of American industry in many products—particularly heavy industry products. Skoda can always undersell American manufacturers of the same commodities because Skoda charges a "political" price which is unrelated to anything except the political relations or obligations of buyer and seller. In fact, Skoda will, on order of the Kremlin, give the goods for nothing or for whatever is the agreement between the Kremlin's representative and the other country.

It is not a question of foreigners not being able to sell us goods to get dollars to pay us. It is a question of our basic economic policy. Shall we undersell Soviet Russia, West Germany and Japan by subsidizing the export trade of our industries or shall we take our chances in a free market and risk the social effects of unemployment, or shall we find a means of protecting, at least, our home market from foreign dumping?

In economic theory, the free market is the best; but we are not living in that kind of a world today. For instance, at this moment not only Soviet export of gold but the British pound is bombarding the American dollar with the object of forcing the American government to raise the price of gold. Most of the gold produced in the world today comes from South Africa and Soviet Russia. The United States is the largest purchaser of gold. It would be profitable for South Africa and Soviet Russia but costly for the United States if the price of gold went up at this particular moment.

Polish Art Now In The Day's Lovely Light

By Joseph Alsop

WARSAW

"In the Stalinist times, we all made the journey to the end of the night together. So now you must not be surprised if we enjoy the light of day."

The returners from this journey to night's end are the artists of Poland—the painters who are now producing such a remarkable creative explosion here. I had had a long day with some of them, a day set apart from any ordinary day by its especial combination of gaiety, easy companionship, and serious intellectual passion. And this quite wonderful combination was explained, at the day's close, by the remark above quoted.

Happy experiences are rarely meaningful and meaningful experiences are rarely agreeable. But as this experience was both so pleasant and so full of inner significance, it may be worth trying to describe.

The occasion's organizer, then, was Professor Urbanowicz, a gentle, wise man who teaches fine arts at Warsaw University and is also an abstract painter of note. The only member of the party who "still paints the objects," as he put it, was Jan Cybis. But Cybis "paints the object" in a manner which has caused something close to apoplexy in Moscow when his paintings were recently shown there. For this same reason, the others called him "our father and forerunner."

The rest were younger men like the shy, strikingly talented abstract-expressionist, Jan Lebenstein, and the vigorous, boldly experimental Alexander Kobzdej. Our day together began around a luncheon table at the best restaurant in Warsaw, a place which sadly proves at least half the truth of the glum pronouncement of the leading Soviet writer, Ilya Ehrenburg: "Alas, comrades, socialism with all its virtues cannot produce good cooking or good pastry."

But the greasiness of the cutlets did not impede the effervescence of the conversation. The gaiety and the comradeship was the first feature that struck one. The art world of the West tends to be cattily uncompanionable as the sourest old maids' tea party. But these men, widely different in age, fierce rivals in their work, were still united by their shared past trials. And that trial had ended in daylight, and not in the gray prison-twilight of Budapest.

With the vodka, there were jokes. But the joking of friends re-united was soon forgotten when I asked the question about the fate of the arts in Stalinist times. All but one of those present had tried his hand at official Communist painting. Practicing that "socialist realism" which so wonderfully illustrates the French saying: "There is art — and then there is official art." Only the young Lebenstein had laid his brushes aside and quietly subsided for a while into the derelict life of a Warsaw bum.

"At the beginning," said Urbanowicz quite simply, "we were impressed when the party told us, 'you are outside life, divorced from masses; and now you must paint differently,' we asked ourselves, was it true or not?"

But long before Wladyslaw Gomulka came to power in Poland, "we knew this socialist realism was not art; we knew this was worse than sawdust," so another continued. When the Stalinists still gripped Poland, in 1955, the first pictures were shown that flagrantly defied the official convention. Those who showed them, like the brilliant, tragically dead Wrobleski, are still thought of as heroes.

Yet by rejecting the officially realism, did the Polish painters not feel cut off from the masses now? This question provoked a perfect babble of deeply serious talk, if you can imagine a serious babble. "For an artist," said Lebenstein, "it is the personal truth that matters. When I do work that seems true to me, then I feel in accord with others, and if some who see my work also feel this accord, it is enough."

"In war, in a great revolution," put in the burly Kobzdej, "the individual is lost in the great struggle of the mass. But in art, the individual must rediscover himself, so for good art the individual cannot be submerged."

Thus began a discussion of modern art that lasted through a series of visits to studios and through the storage place of the Polish pictures chosen for a major exhibition in Brazil. The talk revealed that the American painter, Jackson Pollock, occupies almost the same place in the imagination of these Polish artists as James Dean occupies in the imagination of some young people. "Seeing his pictures, even in reproduction, was a true liberation."

So they spoke of Pollock. Picasso "is not a true painter, but a great intellectual who paints — and maybe more important for that reason." Matisse, "all painter through and through," is another hero. As to the future of painting, "the lessons of the past, the conditions of the present, the inspiration of the future, are what make a style in painting. What we do now is true for us, but the serious painters of the next generation will surely find another way. So it is, always!"

For many hours this truly memorable day continued, with jokes and teasing and astute commentary on the pictures in each studio interjected between the passages of deeper talk. What was this day's larger meaning, you may well ask.

The answer was given by old Cybis, when he described the storm touched off in Moscow by "our rather conservative little Polish show there." It had been a high storm indeed, but, Cybis added with a grin, "the youths were on our side, and to the youths belong the future."

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

In a natural reaction from the hysteria of a few short years ago, most people in the United States have been completely indifferent to the continuing threat of internal Communist subversion and espionage.

Congressmen and Senators continue to talk about the "Red Menace," but their warnings have become well-worn cliches to which little public attention has been paid.

Recently, FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover cautioned of a revival of Communist activity throughout the country, particularly in revitalizing and setting up new "fronts" for their activities.

Now, attorney General William P. Rogers has gone a step further. Rogers disclosed that Russia, using her faithful party hacks in this country, has been intensifying espionage activities, particularly concerning military, atomic, missile and related information.

What both Rogers and Hoover are saying, in essence, is that any relaxation of vigilance can only result in harm to America's position on a vital front of the cold war.

Drugs Available For 'Waterlogged' Children

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Nephrosis, a kidney disorder, is more common in children than in adults. The condition differs from Bright's disease in that it is unheralded by a previous illness.

The earliest sign is slight puffiness around the eyes. It is most noticeable in the morning and usually disappears by noon. As the disease progresses, swelling increases gradually and in time becomes noticeable in the abdomen and legs. The trousers and dresses become too tight and the shoes are difficult to lace.

Unless the ailment is treated, the face and abdomen may become so edematous the little fellow looks like a little Buddha. Water is heavy and the youngster may double in weight within a few days.

Despite the fluid accumulation in the tissues, the child does not feel ill. Edema tends to come and go. The child may pass large amounts of clear urine and, within a few days, swelling disappears. This remission may last a few days, weeks, or forever but is likely to be temporary.

Before the advent of modern treatment, most youngsters had two or three attacks with spontaneous remissions. Thereafter, 50 per cent succumbed to the disease. Today many victims of nephrosis are made more comfortable during their illness. These children are extremely susceptible to infections, especially pneumonia caused by the pneumococcus organism. These infections usually meant the beginning of the end but now they are easily combated with antibiotics such as penicillin.

ACTH, cortisone, Meticorten, and the newer steroids have a beneficial effect in controlling edema by stimulating the affected kidneys to eliminate the excessive body fluid. These products are not curative but life is prolonged, giving the body a greater chance to produce spontaneous cure.

TOMORROW: You can help your 'eart.

SILVER STANDARD

M. N. writes: Is Argyrol used much today in infections?

REPLY

No. Years ago, silver products such as Argyrol were used in infections for their antiseptic action. We now have remedies with a more specific action against bacteria and other micro-organisms. The antibiotics, such as penicillin, and the sulfonomides are in this category. One objection to silver products, besides their inefficiency in controlling infection, is that skin discoloration followed their continued use.

CHOLESTEROL

E. W. writes: Why should a middle-aged person who never ate much butter or other fat develop a high cholesterol?

REPLY

Because there is more to cholesterol than diet. Exercise, stress, and the glandular system all play a role in the blood cholesterol level.

RADIOACTIVE NUTS

E. L. writes: Are Brazil nuts radioactive? I'm very fond of them but am concerned because I heard they are radioactive?

REPLY

No and, to my knowledge, no general class of foods contains so much radioactivity they cannot be eaten.

NATURAL HORMONES

H. J. D. writes: What are hormones?

REPLY

Secretions produced by the endocrine glands. They are carried in the blood stream to the various organs and tissues of the body. These substances are in contrast to the secretions from the glands that exude sweat, mucus, acid, and enzymes.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

New York's most sadistic wife tantalizer has been run to earth by Joe Tippin. This scoundrel was sunning himself on the stoop of his private brownstone when he called to his wife, "Come quick if you want to see the woman Frank is mad about."

His wife dropped everything and rushed out to "get the goods" on her neighbor. "Where" she demanded. "That lady there in the beaver coat," said her husband.

"You must be out of your head," cried she. "That's Frank's wife."

"Of course," he nodded with a fiendish chuckle.

A would-be sophisticate trying to impress a new girl, took her to an exclusive restaurant where the entire menu was printed in French. He scanned the list with a knowing air, and pointed Marcel de Rochambeau. "That looks good," he opined.

"It ought to," agreed the waiter. "It's been in Florida all winter. That's the proprietor."

Speaker Rayburn Tempted By Gift To His Library From Rich Friends

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Speaker Sam Rayburn, 77 years old and with 45 years of devoted public service to his credit, stands in danger of spoiling some of it, thanks to his library in Bonham, Texas.

Mr. Sam wants to raise an endowment to pay for the upkeep of the library, and has the turndown of $200,000 from Secretary of the Treasury Bob Anderson, also another $200,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation. Anderson would not contribute the money personally, but would raise it from friends.

Speaker Rayburn's friends, in turn, say this would put him under obligation to the wealthy friends of Secretary Anderson and to the Rockefeller family—even though both groups have the best intentions in the world. You can't receive large amounts of money like this even from the finest philanthropist and for the most worthy cause, without feeling an obligation.

Already, say congressional friends of Mr. Sam, he has been pulling his punches on the Democratic legislative program. The days when he fought to pass the Holding Corporation Act to split up the big corporations, and the Securities and Exchange Act to police Wall Street, are long over. Recently Mr. Sam has pioneered no new legislation. He did put up a fight for the housing bill. But, aside from that, there has been little attempt to live up to the Democratic platform.

Last week, immediately after the Dulles funeral, Sam flew with Secretary Anderson to Perrin Field, Sherman, Texas, near his home. Anderson used a special government plane to visit his Texas ranch, then picked up Sam for the return flight to Washington.

This chummy relationship between the Secretary of the Treasury, Republican, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, Democrat, would become all the closer if Sam accepted $200,000 from Anderson's friends for his library.

The Social Lobby

It's interesting what the friends of Admiral Strauss will do to influence Senate vote, for his confirmation as Secretary of Commerce.

Last week Vice President Nixon, close friend of Admiral Strauss, gave a highly exclusive dinner party for Chancellor Adenauer of Germany. The only Cabinet member invited was Strauss, and the only Senator invited was Margaret Chase Smith, of Maine, Republican, who is on the fence regarding Strauss' confirmation. Senator Smith, though not a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was singled out from all other Senators for this exclusive dinner.

But, at the last minute Mrs. Smith didn't make it. She sent word that she was detained by a Senate vote which wasn't called until 10 p. m.

Senator Smith has a record of not missing a single roll-call vote since June 1, 1955. She has been present to answer yea or nay for a total of 570 votes and she didn't want to break that record. She did not know until later, incidentally, that plans had been made to have her get better acquainted with the Cabinet officer who very much wants her vote for his confirmation.

Unevenhanded Justice

Last January an FBI agent called at the Trades Unionist Printing Company of Washington and interviewed Fred S. Walker, its manager, regarding 50,000 circulars ordered by a union official for the campaign of Congressman Thomas F. Johnson, Democrat, of the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Again last week, two FBI agents called on the same printing company regarding the same circular.

It was claimed that the circular carried no personal signature, only the name "Citizens Committee for Tom Jackson for Congress," which is against the law. Also, the union might be in violation of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Meanwhile, the FBI has done nothing about that $5,000 check given by Bill Keck of Superior Oil Company to the Eisenhower dinner committee right in the middle of the drive by Superior Oil and other oil companies to pass a natural gas bill.

Also, the Justice Department has done nothing about the trial of Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Harlem Democrat, who came out for Ike in 1956 when he felt the hot breath of the law on his neck. After a nine-month delay, Powell was indicted. Now there has been another year's delay and Ike's friend, Congressman Powell, has not gone to trial.

Ike's Veto Troubles

President Eisenhower is going to be in a box when it comes to vetoing the big $2,100,000,000 housing bill.

Federal housing money on which the huge building industry is depending will be used up on or about June 15. By that time, the FHA will scrape the bottom of the mortgage barrel and the huge building industry will begin to grind slowly to a stop.

That's the inside reason why Congressman Albert Rains of Alabama will send the new housing bill to the President's desk on or about June 16. If Ike got it much earlier he could veto the bill and his supporters in Congress might have time to pass a new law authorizing private mortgage money but eliminating slum clearance and public housing. Ike wants the mortgage money, but not the slum clearance-public housing.

However, the new package housing bill will be a tough one for Ike to veto. If he sends the bill back to Congress, the Democrats have enough votes to hold up the entire housing bill indefinitely. While they can't pass it over Ike's veto, they can delay, until the construction industry puts the monkey where the Democrats think it belongs—on Ike's back.

Red Squeeze Play

Those who study the diplomatic cables are concerned over a new Communist squeeze play over the Formosa Strait.

There's been increased shelling of the offshore islands, and an American converted bomber, carrying a Chinese Nationalist crew, was shot down by the Red Chinese.

U. S. diplomats figure this is a triple play to pressure the United States regarding Berlin. One end of the triple play is in Albania, the other in Geneva, and the third in Red China.

Nothing To Buy

By Leslie Gould

Touring in Russia with your wife (or your girl friend, the Russians are very broadminded) has one advantage over any other country.

There is nothing to buy. What there is, is expensive — even at the favorable tourist rate of ten rubles to the dollar against the official four to the dollar rate.

The only bargain is caviar. This is good, depending on the restaurant, but the best grades are shipped to the U.S. market. It makes for sorely needed dollar exchange.

The champagne isn't bad either and not expensive — about $3.50 a large bottle.

On the broadmindedness of the Russians and Americans living there for some time:

While dining in the National Hotel, an American information officer sitting at a nearby table came over and introduced himself. He was a reader.

A few minutes later a Russian stopped at the table and our new found American friend introduced me and then turned to the wife and said:

"Pardon me, I didn't catch your name."

We repeated the story later to an English-speaking Russian. Without smiling he explained most of the Russian men staying and dining at the hotel were heads of plants in Moscow on an expense account-financed trip. The women with them he said "may not" be their wives.

To get back to clothing prices, a man's winter overcoat — warm but poorly styled — $210 at the 10 rubles to the dollar rate. A man's suit anywhere from $76 to $200, with the difference only in the material, not the styling.

A white shirt — $7.80 up. Felt hat $15. A scarf $7.20. Shoes $25 and up. Curiously the cheapest clothing are men's tuxedos and dress shirts, pleated dress shirts being $2.80.

Women's clothes are correspondingly expensive. Only cotton dresses of poor quality and styling, comparable to bargain basement type, only more expensive, are sold off the racks.

For better dresses, material and patterns are sold, or the women can have the store dressmaker make up a number.

Nylon hose are $3.30 to $4.25 a pair and poor quality. A slip $23. A nightgown $25. Women's pumps $25 to $54. Low heeled shoes — which most women wear — $43. Women at night will change from high heeled shoes to low heeled ones before leaving a restaurant.

Children's clothes are much cheaper and the children are well dressed and clean. Boys' shoes are $4.50 — much cheaper than in the U.S.

The true measure of the high cost is the number of hours a Russian must work to buy necessities. For the average worker, receiving 800 to 1,000 rubles a month, it takes more than two months' labor to buy a man's overcoat, against 27 to 36 hours in the U.S. A week's labor to buy a cheap pair of shoes. From three weeks to two months to buy a suit of clothes, compared to 25 hours in the U.S.

A pair of women's nylons "costs" nearly two hours of labor, against 14 minutes here. Ten eggs — they don't sell them by the dozen — about the same. A quart of milk in the buyer's own container a half hour. Round steak more than three hours. Butter five hours.

Coffee is very expensive — about 4½ hours for one pound against 22½ minutes in America. A candy bar an hour. A single lemon 42 minutes. Canned vegetables anywhere from 30 minutes to an hour. Champagne more than six hours and caviar more than two hours for two ounces.

Russian food is of fair to good quality, but the meats are fatty. Clothing is shoddy and poorly styled. All consumer goods are shoddy.

There are shortages, and long queues form before the 11 a. m. opening of shops carrying scarce items. The biggest crowds are at the shoes, yard goods and food counters.

There is no need to shop, only for scarce items. The prices are the same in all stores. Sales people serve only as clerks handing the requested merchandise to the customer.

The buyer selects her merchandise, then queues up at a change booth to pay for the goods. Returning with her receipt, she again has to fight her way back to the counter. By that time the item selected may have been sold out. Then, she has, to queue up again at the change booth for her refund.

The proletariat paradise is capitalist America.

(The next article tells the insignificant role the automobile plays in the Russian economy today as well as in the future. Also how cars are sold.)

McClellan's Fight For Labor Bill

Senator McClellan of Arkansas has made a strenuous and courageous fight to put effective teeth in the now practically toothless Kennedy-Ervin "labor bill." He deserves credit for his stand. He has made a deep study of the whole field of organized labor, with special reference to the monopolistic phases of union labor practice.

Powerful weapons used by bosses like Reuther and Hoffa come under the general head of intimidation, which is usually brought about by various forms of picketing, boycotting and other devices.

Of course the union lobbyists in Washington cracked the whip over members of the U.S. Senate when votes were taken on amendments offered by McClellan. For convenience they are numbered as follows:

1. To ban organizational picketing unless a majority of employes have expressed an interest in joining a union.

2. To prohibit all secondary boycotts.

3. To let states apply state law in labor disputes in which the NLRB declines to act.

4. The McClellan bill of rights for the union member, with enforcible clauses.

5. A substitute, watered down form of the former, offered by Kuchel and others.

Thirty-six Democrats and one Republican voted across the board for the Kennedy version. Ten Republicans and one Democrat (Lausche of Ohio) voted against Kennedy all the way.

The other 50 voted a mixed ticket, or were absent, or did not vote.

These Days

The Free Trade Agreement

A graduate of Iona College in New Rochelle, who is an employe of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and therefore should know some economics, wrote me:

". . . What happens to the purchasing power of the worker when his taxes are increased in order for the Government to subsidize those industries which cannot compete with foreign goods? If foreigners cannot sell us goods then they are obviously unable to earn dollars. Assuming a nation, Japan, for instance is indebted to us, how can she earn dollars to repay this debt if we refuse to allow her to sell us textiles and other products which is her sole means of earning dollars which she must have in order to repay the U.S. Such a nation and there are many, due to the fact that we are a creditor nation, is unable to repay her debt to us and it becomes, in effect, a gift, the essence of which was derived from tax dollars, represented mainly by the income tax, the majority of which is taken from the income of wage earners . . ."

This is an interesting thesis, although if carried to its logical conclusion, which is never done, it could make of us a pauper nation with an enormous unemployed population.

The writer of the letter regards a protective tariff, to any degree, a subsidy to industry, not to the entire industry but only to the stockholders thereof. Actually, if an industry is protected, it means that not only the stockholders, but management, the workers, the distributors of goods, etc., benefit.

A price is determined by the cost of production plus overhead plus taxes. In the United States, the principal ingredient in the cost of production is wages—the hourly rate to labor. In steel, for instance, in 1958, the hourly rate in the United States was $2.88; in Japan, in 1957, it was 40.6 cents. Unless some factor offsets this difference, it is not possible for these steels to compete. The assumption might be that American steel is superior; actually steel is steel if it meets the specifications.

Furthermore, the foreign steel might have a government subsidy, which the foreign government sometimes derives from American aid. This gives the foreign manufacturer a double advantage, namely, he is helped by his government and the American taxpayer pays for the help.

There is no country on Earth today which has a free market and there are many countries which subsidize exports with the object of getting "hard currency," namely American dollars. Because of high wages and high taxes, American goods are actually outpriced in many markets.

Another problem that faces the American manufacturer is that he has no way of calculating his competitor's price when the competitor is Soviet Russia or its satellites.

For instance, the Skoda Works in Czechoslovakia is a competitor of American industry in many products—particularly heavy industry products. Skoda can always undersell American manufacturers of the same commodities because Skoda charges a "political" price which is unrelated to anything except the political relations or obligations of buyer and seller. In fact, Skoda will, on order of the Kremlin, give the goods for nothing or for whatever is the agreement between the Kremlin's representative and the other country.

It is not a question of foreigners not being able to sell us goods to get dollars to pay us. It is a question of our basic economic policy. Shall we undersell Soviet Russia, West Germany and Japan by subsidizing the export trade of our industries or shall we take our chances in a free market and risk the social effects of unemployment, or shall we find a means of protecting, at least, our home market from foreign dumping?

In economic theory, the free market is the best; but we are not living in that kind of a world today. For instance, at this moment not only Soviet export of gold but the British pound is bombarding the American dollar with the object of forcing the American government to raise the price of gold. Most of the gold produced in the world today comes from South Africa and Soviet Russia. The United States is the largest purchaser of gold. It would be profitable for South Africa and Soviet Russia but costly for the United States if the price of gold went up at this particular moment.

Polish Art Now In The Day's Lovely Light

By Joseph Alsop

WARSAW

"In the Stalinist times, we all made the journey to the end of the night together. So now you must not be surprised if we enjoy the light of day."

The returners from this journey to night's end are the artists of Poland—the painters who are now producing such a remarkable creative explosion here. I had had a long day with some of them, a day set apart from any ordinary day by its especial combination of gaiety, easy companionship, and serious intellectual passion. And this quite wonderful combination was explained, at the day's close, by the remark above quoted.

Happy experiences are rarely meaningful and meaningful experiences are rarely agreeable. But as this experience was both so pleasant and so full of inner significance, it may be worth trying to describe.

The occasion's organizer, then, was Professor Urbanowicz, a gentle, wise man who teaches fine arts at Warsaw University and is also an abstract painter of note. The only member of the party who "still paints the objects," as he put it, was Jan Cybis. But Cybis "paints the object" in a manner which has caused something close to apoplexy in Moscow when his paintings were recently shown there. For this same reason, the others called him "our father and forerunner."

The rest were younger men like the shy, strikingly talented abstract-expressionist, Jan Lebenstein, and the vigorous, boldly experimental Alexander Kobzdej. Our day together began around a luncheon table at the best restaurant in Warsaw, a place which sadly proves at least half the truth of the glum pronouncement of the leading Soviet writer, Ilya Ehrenburg: "Alas, comrades, socialism with all its virtues cannot produce good cooking or good pastry."

But the greasiness of the cutlets did not impede the effervescence of the conversation. The gaiety and the comradeship was the first feature that struck one. The art world of the West tends to be cattily uncompanionable as the sourest old maids' tea party. But these men, widely different in age, fierce rivals in their work, were still united by their shared past trials. And that trial had ended in daylight, and not in the gray prison-twilight of Budapest.

With the vodka, there were jokes. But the joking of friends re-united was soon forgotten when I asked the question about the fate of the arts in Stalinist times. All but one of those present had tried his hand at official Communist painting. Practicing that "socialist realism" which so wonderfully illustrates the French saying: "There is art — and then there is official art." Only the young Lebenstein had laid his brushes aside and quietly subsided for a while into the derelict life of a Warsaw bum.

"At the beginning," said Urbanowicz quite simply, "we were impressed when the party told us, 'you are outside life, divorced from masses; and now you must paint differently,' we asked ourselves, was it true or not?"

But long before Wladyslaw Gomulka came to power in Poland, "we knew this socialist realism was not art; we knew this was worse than sawdust," so another continued. When the Stalinists still gripped Poland, in 1955, the first pictures were shown that flagrantly defied the official convention. Those who showed them, like the brilliant, tragically dead Wrobleski, are still thought of as heroes.

Yet by rejecting the officially realism, did the Polish painters not feel cut off from the masses now? This question provoked a perfect babble of deeply serious talk, if you can imagine a serious babble. "For an artist," said Lebenstein, "it is the personal truth that matters. When I do work that seems true to me, then I feel in accord with others, and if some who see my work also feel this accord, it is enough."

"In war, in a great revolution," put in the burly Kobzdej, "the individual is lost in the great struggle of the mass. But in art, the individual must rediscover himself, so for good art the individual cannot be submerged."

Thus began a discussion of modern art that lasted through a series of visits to studios and through the storage place of the Polish pictures chosen for a major exhibition in Brazil. The talk revealed that the American painter, Jackson Pollock, occupies almost the same place in the imagination of these Polish artists as James Dean occupies in the imagination of some young people. "Seeing his pictures, even in reproduction, was a true liberation."

So they spoke of Pollock. Picasso "is not a true painter, but a great intellectual who paints — and maybe more important for that reason." Matisse, "all painter through and through," is another hero. As to the future of painting, "the lessons of the past, the conditions of the present, the inspiration of the future, are what make a style in painting. What we do now is true for us, but the serious painters of the next generation will surely find another way. So it is, always!"

For many hours this truly memorable day continued, with jokes and teasing and astute commentary on the pictures in each studio interjected between the passages of deeper talk. What was this day's larger meaning, you may well ask.

The answer was given by old Cybis, when he described the storm touched off in Moscow by "our rather conservative little Polish show there." It had been a high storm indeed, but, Cybis added with a grin, "the youths were on our side, and to the youths belong the future."

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

In a natural reaction from the hysteria of a few short years ago, most people in the United States have been completely indifferent to the continuing threat of internal Communist subversion and espionage.

Congressmen and Senators continue to talk about the "Red Menace," but their warnings have become well-worn cliches to which little public attention has been paid.

Recently, FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover cautioned of a revival of Communist activity throughout the country, particularly in revitalizing and setting up new "fronts" for their activities.

Now, attorney General William P. Rogers has gone a step further. Rogers disclosed that Russia, using her faithful party hacks in this country, has been intensifying espionage activities, particularly concerning military, atomic, missile and related information.

What both Rogers and Hoover are saying, in essence, is that any relaxation of vigilance can only result in harm to America's position on a vital front of the cold war.

Nothing To Buy

By Leslie Gould

Touring in Russia with your wife (or your girl friend, the Russians are very broadminded) has one advantage over any other country.

There is nothing to buy. What there is, is expensive — even at the favorable tourist rate of ten rubles to the dollar against the official four to the dollar rate.

The only bargain is caviar. This is good, depending on the restaurant, but the best grades are shipped to the U.S. market. It makes for sorely needed dollar exchange.

The champagne isn't bad either and not expensive — about $3.50 a large bottle.

On the broadmindedness of the Russians and Americans living there for some time:

While dining in the National Hotel, an American information officer sitting at a nearby table came over and introduced himself. He was a reader.

A few minutes later a Russian stopped at the table and our new found American friend introduced me and then turned to the wife and said:

"Pardon me, I didn't catch your name."

We repeated the story later to an English-speaking Russian. Without smiling he explained most of the Russian men staying and dining at the hotel were heads of plants in Moscow on an expense account-financed trip. The women with them he said "may not" be their wives.

To get back to clothing prices, a man's winter overcoat — warm but poorly styled — $210 at the 10 rubles to the dollar rate. A man's suit anywhere from $76 to $200, with the difference only in the material, not the styling.

A white shirt — $7.80 up. Felt hat $15. A scarf $7.20. Shoes $25 and up. Curiously the cheapest clothing are men's tuxedos and dress shirts, pleated dress shirts being $2.80.

Women's clothes are correspondingly expensive. Only cotton dresses of poor quality and styling, comparable to bargain basement type, only more expensive, are sold off the racks.

For better dresses, material and patterns are sold, or the women can have the store dressmaker make up a number.

Nylon hose are $3.30 to $4.25 a pair and poor quality. A slip $23. A nightgown $25. Women's pumps $25 to $54. Low heeled shoes — which most women wear — $43. Women at night will change from high heeled shoes to low heeled ones before leaving a restaurant.

Children's clothes are much cheaper and the children are well dressed and clean. Boys' shoes are $4.50 — much cheaper than in the U.S.

The true measure of the high cost is the number of hours a Russian must work to buy necessities. For the average worker, receiving 800 to 1,000 rubles a month, it takes more than two months' labor to buy a man's overcoat, against 27 to 36 hours in the U.S. A week's labor to buy a cheap pair of shoes. From three weeks to two months to buy a suit of clothes, compared to 25 hours in the U.S.

A pair of women's nylons "costs" nearly two hours of labor, against 14 minutes here. Ten eggs — they don't sell them by the dozen — about the same. A quart of milk in the buyer's own container a half hour. Round steak more than three hours. Butter five hours.

Coffee is very expensive — about 4½ hours for one pound against 22½ minutes in America. A candy bar an hour. A single lemon 42 minutes. Canned vegetables anywhere from 30 minutes to an hour. Champagne more than six hours and caviar more than two hours for two ounces.

Russian food is of fair to good quality, but the meats are fatty. Clothing is shoddy and poorly styled. All consumer goods are shoddy.

There are shortages, and long queues form before the 11 a. m. opening of shops carrying scarce items. The biggest crowds are at the shoes, yard goods and food counters.

There is no need to shop, only for scarce items. The prices are the same in all stores. Sales people serve only as clerks handing the requested merchandise to the customer.

The buyer selects her merchandise, then queues up at a change booth to pay for the goods. Returning with her receipt, she again has to fight her way back to the counter. By that time the item selected may have been sold out. Then, she has, to queue up again at the change booth for her refund.

The proletariat paradise is capitalist America.

(The next article tells the insignificant role the automobile plays in the Russian economy today as well as in the future. Also how cars are sold.)

Drugs Available For 'Waterlogged' Children

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Nephrosis, a kidney disorder, is more common in children than in adults. The condition differs from Bright's disease in that it is unheralded by a previous illness.

The earliest sign is slight puffiness around the eyes. It is most noticeable in the morning and usually disappears by noon. As the disease progresses, swelling increases gradually and in time becomes noticeable in the abdomen and legs. The trousers and dresses become too tight and the shoes are difficult to lace.

Unless the ailment is treated, the face and abdomen may become so edematous the little fellow looks like a little Buddha. Water is heavy and the youngster may double in weight within a few days.

Despite the fluid accumulation in the tissues, the child does not feel ill. Edema tends to come and go. The child may pass large amounts of clear urine and, within a few days, swelling disappears. This remission may last a few days, weeks, or forever but is likely to be temporary.

Before the advent of modern treatment, most youngsters had two or three attacks with spontaneous remissions. Thereafter, 50 per cent succumbed to the disease. Today many victims of nephrosis are made more comfortable during their illness. These children are extremely susceptible to infections, especially pneumonia caused by the pneumococcus organism. These infections usually meant the beginning of the end but now they are easily combated with antibiotics such as penicillin.

ACTH, cortisone, Meticorten, and the newer steroids have a beneficial effect in controlling edema by stimulating the affected kidneys to eliminate the excessive body fluid. These products are not curative but life is prolonged, giving the body a greater chance to produce spontaneous cure.

TOMORROW: You can help your heart.

SILVER STANDARD

M. N. writes: Is Argyrol used much today in infections?

REPLY

No. Years ago, silver products such as Argyrol were used in infections for their antiseptic action. We now have remedies with a more specific action against bacteria and other micro-organisms. The antibiotics, such as penicillin, and the sulfonomides are in this category. One objection to silver products, besides their inefficiency in controlling infection, is that skin discoloration followed their continued use.

CHOLESTEROL

E. W. writes: Why should a middle-aged person who never ate much butter or other fat develop a high cholesterol?

REPLY

Because there is more to cholesterol than diet. Exercise, stress, and the glandular system all play a role in the blood cholesterol level.

RADIOACTIVE NUTS

E. L. writes: Are Brazil nuts radioactive? I'm very fond of them but am concerned because I heard they are radioactive?

REPLY

No and, to my knowledge, no general class of foods contains so much radioactivity they cannot be eaten.

NATURAL HORMONES

H. J. D. writes: What are hormones?

REPLY

Secretions produced by the endocrine glands. They are carried in the blood stream to the various organs and tissues of the body. These substances are in contrast to the secretions from the glands that exude sweat, mucus, acid, and enzymes.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

New York's most sadistic wife tantalizer has been run to earth by Joe Tippin. This scoundrel was sunning himself on the stoop of his private brownstone when he called to his wife, "Come quick if you want to see the woman Frank is mad about."

His wife dropped everything and rushed out to "get the goods" on her neighbor. "Where" she demanded. "That lady there in the beaver coat," said her husband.

"You must be out of your head," cried she. "That's Frank's wife."

"Of course," he nodded with a fiendish chuckle.

A would-be sophisticate trying to impress a new girl, took her to an exclusive restaurant where the entire menu was printed in French. He scanned the list with a knowing air, and pointed Marcel de Rochambeau. "That looks good," he opined.

Seventh Defense Of Crown Ends As Doctor Stops Bout

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Elusive Joe Brown took challenger Paolo Rosi's best shots and misses for eight rounds Wednesday night but landed enough rapier punches of his own to carve the Italian into such a bloody mess that Joe kept his world lightweight title on a technical knockout in the ninth round.

Brown was behind on the United Press International score sheet at the end of the eighth round in their scheduled 15-rounder at Uline Arena, but doctors Clark Halstead and Jack Kneipp advised referee Charlie Reynolds to stop the bout because of Rosi's bloody cuts.

Reynolds told 31-year-old Rosi he could not start action in the ninth round, and then the referee went to Brown's corner to signify that the fight was finished and that Brown was still champion, after his seventh defense and his 100th professional fight.

Rosi Quick Bleeder

At that time, referee Reynolds had Rosi, of Italy and New York, ahead on points, 76 to Brown's 71. Judge Norvel Lee had it even on points, giving each 75. But Judge Harry Volkman had Brown ahead 77-75.

The United Press International favored Rosi, 78 to 74.

In the dressing room, Rosi complained that he had been butted in the head during the eighth round.

Rosi Forces Action

Rosi, 31—in this duel of the oldest pair ever to fight for the lightweight title—forced the action in every session. Baldish, muscular Paolo shuffled after the slender, dancing champion and threw wild hooks at him as they moved from rope to rope and from post to post. Half of the challenger's wild hooks missed, and once he nearly fell down.

Mazeroski's Triple Wins Game, 5-3

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bill Mazeroski's two-run triple highlighted a four run rally in the eighth inning and gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The victory was the second for Bob Friend who scattered seven hits but needed relief from Roy Face in the ninth inning. Vinegar Bend Mizell suffered his second defeat against six victories.

The Pirates were on the short end of a 3-1 score going into their big inning. Roman Mejias beat out a roller to second base and advanced on Dick Stuart's single. Joe Christopher ran for Stuart and Bob Skinner singled to center scoring Mejias. Lindy McDaniel came in on relief and Mazeroski greeted him with his three-bagger to right center to put the Pirates ahead 4-3. Then Mazeroski scored when Don Haok was thrown out.

Ed Mathews Belts Pair, Braves Beat Giants, 7-4

Hank Aaron Also Homers In Victory

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Eddie Mathews, the National League's home runleader, hit his 18th and 19th circuit smashes with a man on base each time and Hank Aaron contributed another homer Wednesday night to power the Milwaukee Braves to a 7-4 win over the San Francisco Giants.

The two clouts by Mathews, and the solo homer by Aaron, his 15th, made the two Braves sluggers the top leaders among National League home run hitters.

The Giants also hit two homers, one with no one on by Willie Kirkland and the other with one man on base by Orlando Cepeda, who hit the ball well over 400 feet into Pine Tree Patch in centerfield. But they were not enough to keep Milwaukee starter Bob Buhl from his fourth victory against three losses.

Cepeda's homer in the Giants' sixth inning with Willie Mays on base put San Francisco ahead 3-1, but the lead lasted only until Milwaukee came to bat in the same inning. Giant starter Jack Sanford walked Casey Wise to lead off the inning and Mathews tied the score with his first homer that went high into the right field bleachers. Aaron followed with a double, Wes Covington singled him home, and Sanford went to the showers.

Charlie Boy paid $4.80, $3 and $2.60. Barroco returned $8 and $4.60. O'Keegan paid $6.40 to show.

Basilio Signs With Fullmer For NBA Bout

Bypasses Title Go With Ray Robinson

NEW YORK (AP)—The already hazy chance of a Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio bout for the world middleweight championship, New York version, practically was obliterated Wednesday. Basilio has accepted terms to meet Gene Fullmer in an NBA title fight.

The announcement was made by Norman Rothschild, Syracuse, N.Y., promoter. He said the bout would be held late this summer, with Los Angeles, San Francisco, Salt Lake City and Ogden, Utah, among possible sites.

Robinson, already stripped of his title by the NBA, still is considered champion in New York, the State Athletic Commission ruled Tuesday. The decision was based on recognition of the validity of a contract Robinson signed with Sam Rose of Philadelphia for a title defense against Basilio.

Marv Jenson of West Jordan, Utah, Fullmer's manager, said that Basilio will get a larger percentage of the gate than his fighter. He didn't disclose the terms, but added the contract includes equal rights for Basilio, Fullmer and Rothschild in negotiating television rights and determining the site.

Robinson issued a statement Wednesday reiterating his willingness to meet Basilio, and his belief Basilio did not intend to fight him again. Robinson charged Basilio with acting in bad faith.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Elusive Joe Brown took challenger Paolo Rosi's best shots and misses for eight rounds Wednesday night but landed enough rapier punches of his own to carve the Italian into such a bloody mess that Joe kept his world lightweight title on a technical knockout in the ninth round.

Brown was behind on the United Press International score sheet at the end of the eighth round in their scheduled 15-rounder at Uline Arena, but doctors Clark Halstead and Jack Kneipp advised referee Charlie Reynolds to stop the bout because of Rosi's bloody cuts.

Reynolds told 31-year-old Rosi he could not start action in the ninth round, and then the referee went to Brown's corner to signify that the fight was finished and that Brown was still champion, after his seventh defense and his 100th professional fight.

At that time, referee Reynolds had Rosi, of Italy and New York, ahead on points, 76 to Brown's 71. Judge Norvel Lee had it even on points, giving each 75. But Judge Harry Volkman had Brown ahead 77-75.

The United Press International favored Rosi, 78 to 74.

Rosi Forces Action

Rosi, 31—in this duel of the oldest pair ever to fight for the lightweight title—forced the action in every session. Baldish, muscular Paolo shuffled after the slender, dancing champion and threw wild hooks at him as they moved from rope to rope and from post to post. Half of the challenger's wild hooks missed, and once he nearly fell down.

Mazeroski's Triple Wins Game, 5-3

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bill Mazeroski's two-run triple highlighted a four run rally in the eighth inning and gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The victory was the second for Bob Friend who scattered seven hits but needed relief from Roy Face in the ninth inning. Vinegar Bend Mizell suffered his second defeat against six victories.

The Pirates were on the short end of a 3-1 score going into their big inning. Roman Mejias beat out a roller to second base and advanced on Dick Stuart's single. Joe Christopher ran for Stuart and Bob Skinner singled to center scoring Mejias. Lindy McDaniel came in on relief and Mazeroski greeted him with his three-bagger to right center to put the Pirates ahead 4-3. Then Mazeroski scored when Don Haok was thrown out.

Hank Aaron Also Homers In Victory

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Eddie Mathews, the National League's home runleader, hit his 18th and 19th circuit smashes with a man on base each time and Hank Aaron contributed another homer Wednesday night to power the Milwaukee Braves to a 7-4 win over the San Francisco Giants.

The two clouts by Mathews, and the solo homer by Aaron, his 15th, made the two Braves sluggers the top leaders among National League home run hitters.

The Giants also hit two homers, one with no one on by Willie Kirkland and the other with one man on base by Orlando Cepeda, who hit the ball well over 400 feet into Pine Tree Patch in centerfield. But they were not enough to keep Milwaukee starter Bob Buhl from his fourth victory against three losses.

Cepeda's homer in the Giants' sixth inning with Willie Mays on base put San Francisco ahead 3-1, but the lead lasted only until Milwaukee came to bat in the same inning. Giant starter Jack Sanford walked Casey Wise to lead off the inning and Mathews tied the score with his first homer that went high into the right field bleachers. Aaron followed with a double, Wes Covington singled him home, and Sanford went to the showers.

Charlie Boy Scores Again

Wins 5th In Row At Suffolk Downs

Roxbury Farm's O'Keegan finished two and a half lengths back of Barroco in the six furlong dash completed in 1:11 4/5 over a slow, drying out track.

Charlie Boy paid $4.80, $3 and $2.60. Barroco returned $8 and $4.60. O'Keegan paid $6.40 to show.

Take Over Second; Fox, Aparacio Star

CHICAGO (UPI) — Luis Aparicio and Nellie Fox furnished the hitting and Billy Pierce the pitching Wednesday to lift the Chicago White Sox back into second place in the American League with a 6-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Aparicio's double in the fifth inning scored Jim Landis, who had walked, and put Pierce, after a single, on third base. Then Fox knocked a triple to left center field to score both runners.

Pierce, winning his sixth game, scattered eight hits. Baltimore's only run came on Gene Woodling's fifth homer to open the eighth inning. Three other times Baltimore had runners on third base, but failed to score.

Billy O'Dell the Oriole starter, gave up four runs, including John Romano's single and Larry Doby's triple, for one in the sixth. Arnie Portocarrero allowed the other Chicago tallies on consecutive singles by Bubba Phillips, Sherm Lollar and Romano in the seventh, and on a walk, a sacrifice and an error in the eighth.

Top Winners Vie Today In Eastern Open

Art Wall Heads Pine Ridge List

BALTIMORE (AP) — A field packed with winners of most of the year's tournaments will tear into a new 18-hole layout starting Thursday in the $20,000 Eastern Open.

The starting lineup for the 72-hole contest at Pine Ridge includes the winners of 14 of the 19 tournaments sponsored by the Professional Golfers Assn.

Heading the list is Art Wall Jr., defending champion of the Eastern, winner of this year's biggest prestige tournament to date, the Masters, and leading money earner on the pro circuit. Wall also has won the Bing Crosby and Azalea tournaments this season.

Shooting against him will be the current hot sensation, Don Whitt, the winner of the two preceding PGA tourneys at Memphis and Louisville, Ky.; Gene Littler, a three-time winner; Arnold Palmer, a double first prize copper and Mike Souchak, conqueror of the tour champions at Las Vegas.

Dick Mayer, Bob Toski and Palmer as well as Wall have a crack at becoming the first two-time winner of the Eastern Open. Mayer won it in 1953, Toski the next year and Palmer in 1956.

LaVale Protest Is Disallowed

A protest against a Lonaconing batter being awarded first base when hit by a pitched ball, lodged by LaVale in the Bi State Pony League, last night was disallowed by league officials.

George Schoenadel, manager of the LaVale team, had protested when the Lonaconing batter squared around to bunt the ball with a man on third base and then was hit by the pitch. When the umpires ruled the batter was entitled to first base, the LaVale manager pulled his team from the field and refused to continue the game last Thursday.

The league last night disallowed the protest and awarded the Lonaconing team a forfeit victory, its first of the campaign. LaVale now has a 0-3 record.

Kiwanis To Meet

Merchants Bag 9th Win Over Reds

Salisbury Upset; Dawson Fans 15 To Trip Grantsville

Hyndman's pace-setting Merchants walloped Centerville's Reds, 13-5; Flintstone edged Mt. Savage, 6-5; Wellersburg upset Salisbury, 8-2; and Bobby Dawson fanned 15 batsmen as Barrelville defeated Grantsville, 6-3, in Pen Mar Baseball League games yesterday. They were played at Wellersburg, Mt. Savage, Centerville and Grantsville.

The Merchants scored their ninth win of the campaign as they routed Centerville in the final three innings with nine runs. The league-leaders held a slim 4-3 lead in the seventh before breaking loose.

Bagley Gets 4 Hits

Bagley paced the winners' 18-hit attack with a perfect day on four singles in as many trips to the plate. Cook had a pair of hits including a double and Fair blasted two triples in the assault on five Centerville hurlers.

Glentis Street collected a double and a pair of singles and Mel Nee had three hits, including a two-bagger for the Reds.

Wellersburg's last place nine, scoring its second win of the campaign, pounded out 14 hits and easily defeated Salisbury's third-place team as Ronnie Neubiser hurled a three-hitter for the winners.

Peck had three singles and a double in four trips to the plate for Wellersburg. John Witt and Solly Emerick chipped in with two hits apiece for the winners. The three Salisbury hits, all singles, were shared by Thomas, and Don and Dick Lowery.

Jones Fans 14

Russell Jones pitched three-hit ball and fanned 14 as Flintstone edged Mt. Savage. The victors obtained only five hits but Savage committed nine errors to aid the Flintstone cause.

Gil Corbett absorbed the loss. He was relieved by Ralph Dickel who pitched one-hit ball in the final five innings.

Louis Fabbri with a triple and single and Jim Hammond with a three-bagger sparked the Flintstone hitting. Bill Corbett had a triple and single for Mt. Savage.

Bobby Dawson also allowed only three hits as he whiffed 15 Grantsville batters in pitching Barrelville to its eighth win of the season. The only damaging blow was a two-run homer by John Keister off the righthander's slants.

Skidmore with two doubles, Galen McGregor and Jesse Markley with two hits each, and Pooch Lewis with a homer paced the Barrelville attack. The scores:

Chicago Beats Baltimore Behind Billy Pierce, 6-1

Take Over Second; Fox, Aparacio Star

CHICAGO (UPI) — Luis Aparicio and Nellie Fox furnished the hitting and Billy Pierce the pitching Wednesday to lift the Chicago White Sox back into second place in the American League with a 6-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Aparicio's double in the fifth inning scored Jim Landis, who had walked, and put Pierce, after a single, on third base. Then Fox knocked a triple to left center field to score both runners.

Pierce, winning his sixth game, scattered eight hits. Baltimore's only run came on Gene Woodling's fifth homer to open the eighth inning. Three other times Baltimore had runners on third base, but failed to score.

Billy O'Dell the Oriole starter, gave up four runs, including John Romano's single and Larry Doby's triple, for one in the sixth. Arnie Portocarrero allowed the other Chicago tallies on consecutive singles by Bubba Phillips, Sherm Lollar and Romano in the seventh, and on a walk, a sacrifice and an error in the eighth.

Top Winners Vie Today In Eastern Open

Art Wall Heads Pine Ridge List

BALTIMORE (AP) — A field packed with winners of most of the year's tournaments will tear into a new 18-hole layout starting Thursday in the $20,000 Eastern Open.

The starting lineup for the 72-hole contest at Pine Ridge includes the winners of 14 of the 19 tournaments sponsored by the Professional Golfers Assn.

In addition, the scheduled field of 135 or more boasts the winners of eight other tournaments.

Heading the list is Art Wall Jr., defending champion of the Eastern, winner of this year's biggest prestige tournament to date, the Masters, and leading money earner on the pro circuit. Wall also has won the Bing Crosby and Azalea tournaments this season.

Wall faces the stiffest competition the pro tour has to offer in his effort to become the first double winner in the 10-year-old Eastern Open.

Shooting against him will be the current hot sensation, Don Whitt, the winner of the two preceding PGA tourneys at Memphis and Louisville, Ky.; Gene Littler, a three-time winner; Arnold Palmer, a double first prize copper and Mike Souchak, conqueror of the tour champions at Las Vegas.

Eleven of the 13 leading money winners are aiming for more of the Eastern's pot in which the top award is $2,800.

Dick Mayer, Bob Toski and Palmer as well as Wall have a crack at becoming the first two-time winner of the Eastern Open. Mayer won it in 1953, Toski the next year and Palmer in 1956.

LaVale Protest Is Disallowed

A protest against a Lonaconing batter being awarded first base when hit by a pitched ball, lodged by LaVale in the Bi State Pony League, last night was disallowed by league officials.

George Schoenadel, manager of the LaVale team, had protested when the Lonaconing batter squared around to bunt the ball with a man on third base and then was hit by the pitch. When the umpires ruled the batter was entitled to first base, the LaVale manager pulled his team from the field and refused to continue the game last Thursday.

The league last night disallowed the protest and awarded the Lonaconing team a forfeit victory, its first of the campaign. LaVale now has a 0-3 record.

Kiwanis To Meet

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—The only feminine role in "The Wreck of the Mary Deare" goes to England's No. 1 boxoffice star. Virginia McKenna. For the past 10 years Miss McKenna has been among the first 10 in popularity at the British boxoffice, but this year she reached the top spot.

You may recall her as the girl who was supposed to marry Bill Travers when MGM imported him to this country from England, but the marriage never came off, and neither did Bill's career in American movies.

Gary Cooper planed out Sunday and Charlton Heston leaves Friday for location in London, where they will be joined by Michael Redgrave and Alexander Knox.

Anna Kashfi is keeping her word about working since she and Marlon Brando said adieu. She has just signed with Martin Manulis for the femme lead in one of the segments of James Michener's "Adventures in Paradise." She'll play opposite Gardner McKay, who is the lead in the entire series.

This is Anna's first TV work since her divorce and she starts next week on the 20th lot. Very type casting, too, I'd say. She plays a half Chinese-half French girl, and she looks the part. Moreover, she's attractive.

Today Jean Simmons played her first scene in "Spartacus" with Sir Laurence Olivier. She had rehearsed before but the cameras had not actually registered her.

She said, "it was so nice that my first scene was with Larry with whom, you remember, I played Ophelia in his movie 'Hamlet'." I did remember, and everyone used to say how much Jean resembled Vivien Leigh.

Jean told me the Woolf Bros. picture, "The Nightcomers," has been cancelled so she and Stewart (Granger) won't go to London. "I'm so happy to have a chance to spend the summer at our ranch with the children," she said. She has completely recovered from her recent surgery.

The attractive young German star Horst Buchholz, whom I met at the Milton Berle party earlier this year, was signed by Billy Wilder for a Molnar play. But first he does "Cheri" on Broadway, Anita Loos' play adapted from Colette's novel.

This is probably the first time that an unknown in this country has been starred in a Broadway play. Billy Wilder has agreed to postpone his commitment until after the run of the play. Paul Kohner, who represents both Wilder and Buchholz, set the deal with the Roger Stevens Playwright Co.

That redheaded singer - actor Jimmy Boyd, who caused a sensation sveeral years ago with his recording of "I Saw Mama Kissing Santa Claus," tells me he's finally going to get a visit from Santa Claus himself right after next Christmas when he turns 21 on Jan. 9.

A fund totaling $70,000 accumulated from the profits of the "Santa Claus" song, will be turned over to him, and an additional $50,000 will be realized when a paid-up insurance policy goes to Jimmy when he's 24.

Jimmy currently is working at U-I on a "Bachelor Father" TV segment.

You'll be getting the news from me from the East in a few days. I am leaving tomorrow morning, via TWA jet, for a brief stopover in Chicago then on to Quincy, Ill., to receive a doctor of letters degree on June 7 from Quincy College.

I expect to go on to New York where I plan to see the new shows and catch up with some of the old hits. I am looking forward to this trip as I haven't been in New York for ever a year—much too long.

Final Services Are Held By Union Grove Circuit

The four churches composing Union Grove Methodist Circuit held what is expected to be the last union service of the churches Sunday at the Union Grove camp grounds.

Rev. Louis L. Emerick, pastor, said the Union Grove Charge is one of the oldest circuits of Methodism in this area, and added that the circuit is expected to be split up during the annual Conference meeting which opened yesterday at Westminster. If the anticipated action takes place, he continued, two pastors will be named for the separate divisions.

Zion and Centenary churches will be known as the Wesley Circuit, Rev. Mr. Emerick explained, and the Elliott, Pleasant Grove and Mt. Pleasant churches will remain affiliated as the Union Grove Circuit.

The Wesley Circuit will maintain the present parsonage on Bedford Road, Rev. Mr. Emerick said, while a new parsonage has been purchased for the Union Grove Circuit.

Rev. and Mrs. Emerick were guests of honor at a cafeteria supper following Sunday evening's service, with both being presented gifts by Melvin Robinette on behalf of the congregation and lay leaders. The afternoon program, which featured a Bible quiz and song festival, was in charge of Mrs. Melvin Little.

The membership of the churches has increased to 537 persons under Rev. Mr. Emerick's pastorate. The redecorating of the sanctuaries of Elliott and Pleasant Grove churches is being completed, with both churches being free of debt, and Zion Church has a fund for a new sanctuary, the pastor said.

Barnes To Direct Meet

John I. Barnes, comptroller of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, will be the presiding officer during a conference of more than 500 American and Canadian railway accountants in Cincinnati next week.

Barnes, who began his career with the B&O in Cumberland, is chairman of the Association of American Railroads Accounting Division.

He will direct the organization's 65th annual three-day meeting which opens Monday in the Netherland Hilton Hotel, Cincinnati.

New developments and problems in the field of railroad accounting are to be studied by the delegates to the conference. More than 100 railroads will be represented with 500 delegates attending.

Barnes, who was born in Lonaconing and received his early education in the public schools there, joined the B&O in 1918 as a stenographer in the Cumberland office of the division accountant.

He has been comptroller of the B&O since 1946.

During the conference Barnes will present Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark), chairman of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, and A. R. Seder, vice president of the Association of American Railroads, the two principal speakers.

The Mad Game

By RED SKELTON

Remember that children's game you used to play — Red Light, Green Light (one kid hollers, "One, two, three . . . Red Light! If you don't stop now you're out!").

That game is something like television to the performer, only we all run on the first, silent flash of the magic camera's little red light. It's quite a game, too. Sometimes a mad one. Maybe I can explain it from a personal point of view.

An actor plays so many parts that he sometimes does not know just who or what he is when, as the show ends, he must return from the outer space of make-believe to his own personal world.

I've often been asked "How do you feel" or "Just what is it you do when you get out in front of an audience." My answer is always the same—'I don't know, because when I'm on, or out there, I'm somebody else.'"

All the while he is on stage, an actor is someone else—hero, villain, saint or fiend. He not only must take on the form and presence of Mr. Else, but he must think and feel like that elusive fellow if he hopes to persuade the audience that the play is a chapter from real life.

Sometimes it takes an actor—especially a comedian, who is always jumping out of the frying pan into the fire of fast-changing scenes and characters—an hour or so to say goodbye to Mr. Else, and settle down once again to the prosaic business of his own world and reality.

Of course, some actors become so carried away by a hit play and a fat role that they keep on thinking they really are the king-sized majesties dreamed up by the playwright. These posers have one-way tickets to the moon, and stay there until the big flop comes their way.

Comedians, as a rule, are unsure of themselves. I am no exception. I mean to say that most of us are unsure of tomorrow's jokes and tomorrow's professional pitfalls.

After the excitement—after the lights, the applause and the good notices of the critics, who are the traffic cops of the arts—after the house is dark, who is there in the dimness of the backstage pilot light? Mr. Else has disappeared again, as if he owed ten bucks—a fair-weather friend. The only one left is the actor, who may then ask himself: "If I'm not Mr. Else, who am I?"

The vagaries of show business are such that a performer can be terribly panicked by such self-questioning. I have risked this question in the later hours after a performance that has not clicked.

Once I heard this reply: "I'll tell you who you are. You're the man who was once a hungry kid in Vincennes; a kid whose father was a circus clown; and you wanted to make people laugh. Well, brother, they didn't laugh tonight—and maybe some day they won't laugh at all, ever."

It is an awful feeling, this failure to win audience approval. Sometimes it is like that and you don't know why. It's like throwing rose petals into the Grand Canyon and expecting to hear loud echoes when they hit bottom.

But, if you're not too conceited to admit that you have a lot to learn, in or out of the theater, you get off the floor and try to sharpen your comic sense. If you're a comedian. Like the game I mentioned earlier—you start, you stop, you start again.

The same can be true of a show as a whole, not just one performer. The magic lantern with the fifty-dollar tube is a wonderful thing in the living room. It has been for several years, now; but the demand made on it is a hungry beast, seemingly never satisfied.

Sometimes a show needs a change of style, a change of format; yet, the pace of television is so fast that often when it becomes apparent that such a change is necessary to insure the continued success of a show, the audience it has had has gone, forever and mysteriously.

Comedy appetites are fickle, it seems. Television today seems the best mirror to the varying public demand. In just a few years, the bulwark of stand-up comedy gave way to situation-type, sophisticated humor; then this in turn, faded to herald the return of the stand-up comedian. Some didn't do so well. But, explain the tremendous impace of the Three Stooges today.

Like the game: "One, two, three . . . Red Light!"

Local Girl Queen For Press Meet

Among the judges for the contest, in which 59 girls from 15 newspapers and magazines took part, were Jack Kelly of the "Maverick" television show and Gig Young, movie star.

She will be crowned at the Page One Ball with a $750,000 tiara which is being loaned for the occasion by Harry Winston, a dealer in rare jewelry. Miss Washington will receive a Cecil Chapman gown, and numerous other articles of clothing and jewelry.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—The only feminine role in "The Wreck of the Mary Deare" goes to England's No. 1 boxoffice star. Virginia McKenna. For the past 10 years Miss McKenna has been among the first 10 in popularity at the British boxoffice, but this year she reached the top spot.

You may recall her as the girl who was supposed to marry Bill Travers when MGM imported him to this country from England, but the marriage never came off, and neither did Bill's career in American movies.

Gary Cooper planed out Sunday and Charlton Heston leaves Friday for location in London, where they will be joined by Michael Redgrave and Alexander Knox.

Anna Kashfi is keeping her word about working since she and Marlon Brando said adieu. She has just signed with Martin Manulis for the femme lead in one of the segments of James Michener's "Adventures in Paradise." She'll play opposite Gardner McKay, who is the lead in the entire series.

This is Anna's first TV work since her divorce and she starts next week on the 20th lot. Very type casting, too, I'd say. She plays a half Chinese-half French girl, and she looks the part. Moreover, she's attractive.

Today Jean Simmons played her first scene in "Spartacus" with Sir Laurence Olivier. She had rehearsed before but the cameras had not actually registered her.

She said, "it was so nice that my first scene was with Larry with whom, you remember, I played Ophelia in his movie 'Hamlet'." I did remember, and everyone used to say how much Jean resembled Vivien Leigh.

Jean told me the Woolf Bros. picture, "The Nightcomers," has been cancelled so she and Stewart (Granger) won't go to London. "I'm so happy to have a chance to spend the summer at our ranch with the children," she said. She has completely recovered from her recent surgery.

The attractive young German star Horst Buchholz, whom I met at the Milton Berle party earlier this year, was signed by Billy Wilder for a Molnar play. But first he does "Cheri" on Broadway, Anita Loos' play adapted from Colette's novel.

This is probably the first time that an unknown in this country has been starred in a Broadway play. Billy Wilder has agreed to postpone his commitment until after the run of the play. Paul Kohner, who represents both Wilder and Buchholz, set the deal with the Roger Stevens Playwright Co.

That redheaded singer - actor Jimmy Boyd, who caused a sensation sveeral years ago with his recording of "I Saw Mama Kissing Santa Claus," tells me he's finally going to get a visit from Santa Claus himself right after next Christmas when he turns 21 on Jan. 9.

A fund totaling $70,000 accumulated from the profits of the "Santa Claus" song, will be turned over to him, and an additional $50,000 will be realized when a paid-up insurance policy goes to Jimmy when he's 24.

Jimmy currently is working at U-I on a "Bachelor Father" TV segment.

You'll be getting the news from me from the East in a few days. I am leaving tomorrow morning, via TWA jet, for a brief stopover in Chicago then on to Quincy, Ill., to receive a doctor of letters degree on June 7 from Quincy College.

I expect to go on to New York where I plan to see the new shows and catch up with some of the old hits. I am looking forward to this trip as I haven't been in New York for ever a year—much too long.

Final Services Are Held By Union Grove Circuit

The four churches composing Union Grove Methodist Circuit held what is expected to be the last union service of the churches Sunday at the Union Grove camp grounds.

Rev. Louis L. Emerick, pastor, said the Union Grove Charge is one of the oldest circuits of Methodism in this area, and added that the circuit is expected to be split up during the annual Conference meeting which opened yesterday at Westminster. If the anticipated action takes place, he continued, two pastors will be named for the separate divisions.

Zion and Centenary churches will be known as the Wesley Circuit, Rev. Mr. Emerick explained, and the Elliott, Pleasant Grove and Mt. Pleasant churches will remain affiliated as the Union Grove Circuit.

The Wesley Circuit will maintain the present parsonage on Bedford Road, Rev. Mr. Emerick said, while a new parsonage has been purchased for the Union Grove Circuit.

Rev. and Mrs. Emerick were guests of honor at a cafeteria supper following Sunday evening's service, with both being presented gifts by Melvin Robinette on behalf of the congregation and lay leaders. The afternoon program, which featured a Bible quiz and song festival, was in charge of Mrs. Melvin Little.

The membership of the churches has increased to 537 persons under Rev. Mr. Emerick's pastorate. The redecorating of the sanctuaries of Elliott and Pleasant Grove churches is being completed, with both churches being free of debt, and Zion Church has a fund for a new sanctuary, the pastor said.

Barnes To Direct Meet

John I. Barnes, comptroller of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, will be the presiding officer during a conference of more than 500 American and Canadian railway accountants in Cincinnati next week.

Barnes, who began his career with the B&O in Cumberland, is chairman of the Association of American Railroads Accounting Division.

He will direct the organization's 65th annual three-day meeting which opens Monday in the Netherland Hilton Hotel, Cincinnati.

New developments and problems in the field of railroad accounting are to be studied by the delegates to the conference. More than 100 railroads will be represented with 500 delegates attending.

Barnes, who was born in Lonaconing and received his early education in the public schools there, joined the B&O in 1918 as a stenographer in the Cumberland office of the division accountant.

He has been comptroller of the B&O since 1946.

During the conference Barnes will present Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark), chairman of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, and A. R. Seder, vice president of the Association of American Railroads, the two principal speakers.

The Mad Game

By RED SKELTON

Remember that children's game you used to play — Red Light, Green Light (one kid hollers, "One, two, three . . . Red Light! If you don't stop now you're out!").

That game is something like television to the performer, only we all run on the first, silent flash of the magic camera's little red light. It's quite a game, too. Sometimes a mad one. Maybe I can explain it from a personal point of view.

An actor plays so many parts that he sometimes does not know just who or what he is when, as the show ends, he must return from the outer space of make-believe to his own personal world.

I've often been asked "How do you feel" or "Just what is it you do when you get out in front of an audience." My answer is always the same—"I don't know, because when I'm on, or out there, I'm somebody else."

All the while he is on stage, an actor is someone else—hero, villain, saint or fiend. He not only must take on the form and presence of Mr. Else, but he must think and feel like that elusive fellow if he hopes to persuade the audience that the play is a chapter from real life.

Sometimes it takes an actor—especially a comedian, who is always jumping out of the frying pan into the fire of fast-changing scenes and characters—an hour or so to say goodbye to Mr. Else, and settle down once again to the prosaic business of his own world and reality.

Of course, some actors become so carried away by a hit play and a fat role that they keep on thinking they really are the kingsized majesties dreamed up by the playwright. These posers have one-way tickets to the moon, and stay there until the big flop comes their way.

Comedians, as a rule, are unsure of themselves. I am no exception. I mean to say that most of us are unsure of tomorrow's jokes and tomorrow's professional pitfalls.

After the excitement—after the lights, the applause and the good notices of the critics, who are the traffic cops of the arts—after the house is dark, who is there in the dimness of the backstage pilot light? Mr. Else has disappeared again, as if he owed ten bucks—a fair-weather friend. The only one left is the actor, who may then ask himself: "If I'm not Mr. Else, who am I?"

The vagaries of show business are such that a performer can be terribly panicked by such self-questioning. I have risked this question in the later hours after a performance that has not clicked.

Once I heard this reply: "I'll tell you who you are. You're the man who was once a hungry kid in Vincennes; a kid whose father was a circus clown; and you wanted to make people laugh. Well, brother, they didn't laugh tonight—and maybe some day they won't laugh at all, ever."

It is an awful feeling, this failure to win audience approval. Sometimes it is like that and you don't know why. It's like throwing rose petals into the Grand Canyon and expecting to hear loud echoes when they hit bottom.

But, if you're not too conceited to admit that you have a lot to learn, in or out of the theater, you get off the floor and try to sharpen your comic sense. If you're a comedian. Like the game I mentioned earlier—you start, you stop, you start again.

The same can be true of a show as a whole, not just one performer. The magic lantern with the fifty-dollar tube is a wonderful thing in the living room. It has been for several years, now; but the demand made on it is a hungry beast, seemingly never satisfied.

Sometimes a show needs a change of style, a change of format; yet, the pace of television is so fast that often when it becomes apparent that such a change is necessary to insure the continued success of a show, the audience it has had has gone, forever and mysteriously.

Comedy appetites are fickle, it seems. Television today seems the best mirror to the varying public demand. In just a few years, the bulwark of stand-up comedy gave way to situation-type, sophisticated humor; then this in turn, faded to herald the return of the stand-up comedian. Some didn't do so well. But, explain the tremendous impace of the Three Stooges today.

Like the game: "One, two, three . . . Red Light!"

Local Girl Queen For Press Meet

A Cumberland girl, Therese Washington, 18, has been selected to reign over the Page One Ball of the American Newspaper Guild at the Astor Hotel in New York on June 26 during the national convention of the Guild.

Among the judges for the contest, in which 59 girls from 15 newspapers and magazines took part, were Jack Kelly of the "Maverick" television show and Gig Young, movie star.

She will be crowned at the Page One Ball with a $750,000 tiara which is being loaned for the occasion by Harry Winston, a dealer in rare jewelry. Miss Washington will receive a Cecil Chapman gown, and numerous other articles of clothing and jewelry.

Stock Market Suffers Third Straight Decline

The decline amounted to a mere 0.06 point in the Dow-Jones industrial average, in sharp contrast with Tuesday's drop of more than 6 points, the sharpest since May 7.

In a reversal of the recent tendency, while the averages declined, a great number of stocks closed with gains than losses — 522 high and 463 lower out of a total 1,230 issues traded.

Electronics issues, hardest hit in recent selling, were the day's upside leaders and, despite the late decline, showed gains for the day ranging close to 6 points in Zenith, nearly 4 in Litton Industries, (helped when the company was named to develop a guidance system for the Eagle missile) 2½ in Cutler-Hammer, a point or more in Ampex, General Time and Hoffman.

Non-ferrous metals were strong and active, with Aluminium topping the list on volume. It rose 1¼ to 31¼. Kaiser Aluminum, up 1⅛ to 54⅞, was third on the actives. Kennecott Copper gained nearly 2 points. Reynolds Metals also rose to 2 and Alcoa gained 1¼.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT.	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♦.

Today's hand proved most frustrating to declarer, yet with a little reflection at trick one he might have assured success even against the demon who distributed the cards in this highly sadistic fashion.

The bidding requires little comment. Altho North had 14 high card points this was not sufficient for a slam invitation due to his evenly balanced distribution. Even if his partner had a maximum no trump, 18 plus 14 only comes to 32.

West led the five of diamonds and East's jack forced the queen. With eight top card tricks in hand, declarer had numerous resources for his ninth and ample time in which to find it. He first tried the club suit, leading low to the jack. Hindsight analysis will hasten to point out that he could have picked up three club tricks by playing the ace and king, but a low club to the jack is the superior play. It loses only where East has the doubleton queen, but gains where West has four or five headed by the queen, a much more common holding. It was unfortunate that declarer did not lay down one club honor first, however, for this would have projected an immediate end play.

When East won his queen of clubs he returned the seven. Declarer then tried to find a club break, but met with disappointment. That diamonds would not break was a foregone conclusion, but declarer tested the suit for confirmation. He then attempted to find West with the king of hearts and led low to the queen. East won and returned a heart. Declarer had one more chance in the spade finesse, but went wrong and gave up the ghost.

Declarer should assume that the diamond lead had been from four. East's jack is, therefore, singleton. Without sacrificing a trick, declarer may permit East to hold it. What then can he return? If it is a heart, dummy's queen becomes a winner. If it is a club, South merely permits it to run to the jack and three tricks are assured in the suit. If it is a spade, things really become too easy.

Stock Market Suffers Third Straight Decline

The decline amounted to a mere 0.06 point in the Dow-Jones industrial average, in sharp contrast with Tuesday's drop of more than 6 points, the sharpest since May 7.

In a reversal of the recent tendency, while the averages declined, a great number of stocks closed with gains than losses — 522 high and 463 lower out of a total 1,230 issues traded.

Volume lightened to 2,910,000 shares from Tuesday's 3,120,000.

Electronics issues, hardest hit in recent selling, were the day's upside leaders and, despite the late decline, showed gains for the day ranging close to 6 points in Zenith, nearly 4 in Litton Industries, (helped when the company was named to develop a guidance system for the Eagle missile) 2½ in Cutler-Hammer, a point or more in Ampex, General Time and Hoffman.

Non-ferrous metals were strong and active, with Aluminium topping the list on volume. It rose 1¼ to 31¼. Kaiser Aluminum, up 1⅛ to 54⅞, was third on the actives. Kennecott Copper gained nearly 2 points. Reynolds Metals also rose to 2 and Alcoa gained 1¼.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT.	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♦.

Today's hand proved most frustrating to declarer, yet with a little reflection at trick one he might have assured success even against the demon who distributed the cards in this highly sadistic fashion.

The bidding requires little comment. Altho North had 14 high card points this was not sufficient for a slam invitation due to his evenly balanced distribution. Even if his partner had a maximum no trump, 18 plus 14 only comes to 32.

West led the five of diamonds and East's jack forced the queen. With eight top card tricks in hand, declarer had numerous resources for his ninth and ample time in which to find it. He first tried the club suit, leading low to the jack. Hindsight analysis will hasten to point out that he could have picked up three club tricks by playing the ace and king, but a low club to the jack is the superior play. It loses only where East has the doubleton queen, but gains where the queen, a much more common holding. It was unfortunate that declarer did not lay down one club honor first, however, for this would have projected an immediate end play.

When East won his queen of clubs he returned the seven. Declarer then tried to find a club break, but met with disappointment. That diamonds would not break was a foregone conclusion, but declarer tested the suit for confirmation. He then attempted to find West with the king of hearts and led low to the queen. East won and returned a heart. Declarer had one more chance in the spade finesse, but went wrong and gave up the ghost.

Declarer should assume that the diamond lead had been from four. East's jack is, therefore, singleton. Without sacrificing a trick, declarer may permit East to hold it. What then can he return? If it is a heart, dummy's queen becomes a winner. If it is a club, South merely permits it to run to the jack and three tricks are assured in the suit. If it is a spade, things really become too easy.

State Highway Chief Given Broad Powers

New Commission Revamps System

By DAN DONAHUE

BALTIMORE (AP)—Maryland's State Roads Commission, reorganized by the 1959 Legislature, did more of the same at its first meeting — giving the No. 1 man the strong position that Gov. Tawes intended him to have.

The six new regional commissioners gave Chairman and Highway Director John B. Funk — the seventh member — sweeping power to make decisions on such things as spending money, awarding contracts and disposing of SRC property.

In the past, approval of the full commission of three members was always required. The change came in a resolution adopted unanimously at a meeting Wednesday, only three days after the official birth of the new commission.

Could Be Overruled

Joseph D. Buscher, assistant attorney general assigned to the SRC as legal counsel, explained to the commissioners that the resolution would give the chairman the right to sign "these perfunctory matters" which might accumulate between weekly meetings. It requests the chairman to report on them at each meeting.

"And, of course," said Buscher, "if the commission felt he had overstepped his bounds, it could rescind the action."

There was no such disagreegreement at this two-hour session. All was unanimity as the commission also approved creation of a new Department of Planning, Programing and Research within the SRC and establishment of an Administrative Division to take minor paperwork from the hands of the technical men who head such major departments as engineering, construction and right-of-way.

Reorganization Keynote

One of the commission's two Republican members, Baltimore restaurateur Harley P. Brinsfield, set the tone when he commented during discussion of the new Administrative Division:

"I don't think any of us would be here if it were not for the reorganization. So if we're going to curtail the reorganization, we'd better forget about it."

The SRC reorganization bill had strong support of the governor and Tawes took the unusual step of going before the General Assembly to advocate it. His only other personal appearance was for presentation of the budget.

The new planning division is aimed at easing a financial pinch of the commission in regard to its 15-year highway construction program.

Girl Scouts Issue Appeal For Work Day Volunteers

The camping committee of Cumberland Girl Scout Council has planned "Work Day" at the council's camp, Camp Tioga near Flintstone, all day Saturday.

There will be jobs for all—dads, mothers, scouts and brothers and sisters. The council said anyone interested in Girl Scouting from anywhere in the Cumberland Council area — which includes Cresaptown, Keyser, Romney, Wiley Ford, LaVale, Frostburg, Barton and Cumberland—is invited to participate in this work project.

It is suggested that workers bring a picnic lunch or food and equipment for a barbecue. Some refrigeration will be available in the kitchen for perishables. Tables and water are available in all three camping areas.

Much Already Done

Much volunteer work has already been done at the camp. R. T. Bobo started early in the spring and has now completely installed permanent rackings on all of the tent platforms in each camping unit. Harry Cox, Floyd Myers, Bob Wigger, Homer Plummer and Pat Lawrence have erected all but three tents in the camp. Melvin Dean repaired damage to water lines during the winter and has installed line bleeds to avoid future freezing of lines. The Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company supervised and burned off much of the brush and grass in and around the main camping area.

Many jobs remain to be done and the committee hopes sufficient force will be on hand Saturday to condition the camp for opening of the camping season June 28. Brook Bodkin will supervise a group of Boy Scouts in forestry work around the camping areas. Raymond Koontz has recruited enough men to build three new tent platforms which will house 12 more scouts, increasing the total camping capacity from 60 to 72 girls. Men are needed to set up the foundations for these platforms.

The Senior Scouts, in practice sessions for their Round-up, have constructed four outdoor picnic tables which will be painted and taken to the camping units.

Tents need to be patched and waterproofed, a project that will be directed by Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, camp chairman. Miss Irene Lapp will head the detail which will prepare the dining hall, kitchen and first aid center for the opening of camp. Miss Olive Hurlburt will direct the cleanup of the camp grounds. Many Scouts are needed for this project.

No "Pick And Shovel" Jobs

To make administration of the camp more efficient, Rev. Earl Harper will undertake the job of moving the present office building to a better location.

The camp committee said there will be no "pick and shovel" jobs assigned on Saturday. Workers are asked to bring their own tools such as paint brushes, hammers and saws. The camp committee said it would especially welcome anyone who would show up with a chain saw to help eliminate some of the thorn trees.

County Building For 1959 Near $1 Million Level

Total estimated cost of construction authorized in the unincorporated areas of Allegany County during the first five months of 1959 was nearly $1,000,000.

The five-month total was edged upward to $996,400 with the addition of 36 May permits for construction which the builders estimate will cost a total of $173,550.

Both totals are below the levels of both March and April when the spring surge was first apparent. In March there were 42 permits issued by the county assessment department and the total estimated cost was $242,750. In April, the totals were 68 permits and $516,500, highest levels for 1959.

Last month's figure was far overshadowed by May 1958 because in last year's corresponding month there was a single permit issued for a $2,308,254 waste treatment plant to serve the needs of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the Tri-Towns of Westernport, Luke and Piedmont.

That one major project sent the May 1958 total to $2,459,554 for 31 permits. Without the waste treatment plant, the May total a year ago would have been only $151,300, which is less than the total for last month.

Twenty of the 36 May permits issued by the assessment department were for new dwellings. There were four others for additions to dwellings, three for garages and two for dwelling foundations. There also were single permits for a barn, a driving range, a warehouse, to enclose a porch, to build a group of stores, a liveable basement, and a fire hall.

Last month's building was authorized in 21 different election districts of the county. The usual leader, District 29 at LaVale, was again in front with six permits. Three others were tied with three each. They were District 5, North End suburban; District 7, Cresaptown - Rawlings, and 31, McCoole. Four other districts had two May permits each. They were District 16, North Branch; 21, Gross; 26, Frostburg suburban, and 30, Zihlman.

There were single permits for work in Districts 1, Little Orleans; 2, Oldtown; 3, Flintstone; 6, West Side suburban; 11, Frostburg suburban; 13, Mt. Savage; 18, Midland; 20, Ellerslie-Corriganville; 22, East Side suburban; 24, Eckhart; 28, Frostburg suburban; 32, Frostburg suburban, and 33, Kifer.

Valley Forge Awards Given Local Schools

Fort Hill Graduate Cited For Essay

Fort Hill and Allegany high schools and a graduate of Fort Hill were honored here yesterday by the Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge, Pa., for helping to bring about a better understanding of the American way of life during 1958.

He presented Fort Hill with a $100 bond and a George Washington Honor Medal for an editorial, "America Can't Forget," which appeared in the December 18, 1957 issue of the "Sentinel," the school paper.

Also cited was Miss Linda Craze, 1958 graduate of the school, who was awarded the George Washington Honor Medal for an essay, "Good Citizenship in the School." She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy T. Craze, 601 Henderson Avenue.

For the eighth straight year, Allegany High School was declared the winner of a principal school award. This year's award included a George Washington Memorial Medal for the school, a three-day pilgrimage to Valley Forge for a teacher-student team, and a Freedom's library of books, charts, films and pictures valued at $100.

Miss Mary E. Murray, teacher of the Citizenship Education class, and Joy Luckiewicz, a junior at the school, made the pilgrimage in May and visited at Valley Forge, Philadelphia, Fort McHenry and Washington.

After the assembly program at Fort Hill, Mr. Stiles spoke to the junior class of Allegany High School and complimented the students on past awards won by the school.

The object of the Foundation's annual awards program is to honor those citizens, regardless of race, creed or economic status, who make outstanding contributions toward improved public understanding and appreciation of the basic constitutional rights and freedoms inherent in the American way of life, through the things they write, do or say.

Northeast To Graduate 39 Friday

The second annual graduation at Northeast School will be held Friday at 7 p.m. in the school auditorium, according to Raymond Skidmore, principal.

The program theme this year is "Attitudes" and will feature songs, poems, a parody and choral readings. Dr. Lillian Compton, former president of Frostburg State Teachers College, will deliver the graduation talk and will be introduced by Miss Margaret Doak, elementary supervisor.

Graduation Set At East Side

The closing exercises of the sixth grade of East Side School will be held tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

The program, according to Agnes Lauder, principal, will open with a processional followed by the flag salute and the singing of "America."

Guest speaker will be Miss Betty Flake, supervisor of elementary education in Allegany County schools. The certificates will be presented by Mrs. John Harden, school nurse.

A number of musical selections will be under the direction of Mrs. Simon K. Carroll, music resource teacher. Several parodies were composed by the group.

Donna Swan will extend greetings to the parents in attendance. The school's history will be reviewed by Kathleen Kave and Robert Walburn.

Special mention will be made of the excellent work of the school patrol. Margaret Atkinson and Norma George will be announcers. Miss Orpha Clark, Miss Betty Morgan and Robert Miller are classroom teachers.

Rev. B. K. Price Gets Degree

Rev. Bruce K. Price, pastor of Park Place Methodist Church, LaVale, received a bachelor of sacred theology degree Monday at the first commencement exercises of Wesley Theological Seminary in Washington, D. C.

Rev. Price was one of 32 students who received degrees at the exercises held in Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Church, which is on the campus of American University.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Price, Deal Avenue, LaVale, Rev. Price graduated from Allegany High School in 1952 and received his bachelor of arts degree from Western Maryland College in 1956.

Also among the 1959 Wesley Seminary graduates were Rev. F. Glenn Creek, who had served as pastor of Rawlings-Dawson Methodist Charge, and Rev. John S. Park, pastor of the Bedford (Pa.) Methodist Circuit.

Rev. Creek has returned to his home in Illinois, and Rev. Park will continue serving churches in the Bedford area.

Principal speaker at the graduation exercises was Dean Walter G. Muelder of the Boston University School of Theology. Also participating in the ceremony were Wesley Seminary President Norman L. Trott and Hurst Anderson, president of American University.

Dramatic Group To Stage Two Religious Plays Here

The Bishop's Company Players will present two religious plays at local churches next week under the sponsorship of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

"Cry, The Beloved Country," the dramatization of Alan Paton's best selling novel which deals with racial problems in South Africa, will be presented Wednesday, June 10, in First Presbyterian Church.

The play, "The Boy With The Cart," is the story of a mountain shepherd boy. It will be dramatized at St. John's Lutheran Church in South Cumberland on Thursday, June 11.

The cast includes several professional actors and actresses who have dedicated themselves to the work of presenting religious plays in communities.

The company was formed in 1952, and named the Bishop's Company Players in honor of Methodist Bishop Gerald H. Kennedy, who had been instrumental in the organization of the company.

During the past seven years, the dramatic group, which operates from Santa Barbara, Calif., has presented religious plays throughout the United States. They have given performances in 447 churches in the past year.

Tickets for the plays are available from all members of the Cumberland Ministerial Association and at Central YMCA. The public is invited to attend both performances.

Fort Hill High Commencement On Tap Tonight

Fort Hill High School will get the Allegany County public high school commencement schedule started with outdoor graduation exercises planned for 7 o'clock this evening in the stadium.

Maryland's weather forecast for today calls for mostly sunny weather with pleasant temperatures and a high between 74 and 80 degrees. That indicates that emergency plans to move the commencement into the Fort Hill auditorium in case of rain will not have to be invoked.

At Fort Hill, the principal speaker will be a former high school and college football coach turned Methodist clergyman. He is Rev. Aurance F. Shank, pastor of Fifth Street Methodist Church, Harrisburg, Pa. Joseph M. Miller, vice president of the Allegany County Board of Education, will present diplomas to a class of 265 seniors, the county's largest, and Victor D. Heisey, principal, will present awards to outstanding graduates.

Three other county high schools have commencement exercises planned for 8 o'clock tonight in the respective school auditoriums.

Second largest graduating class tonight will be at Bruce High School in Westernport, where 83 boys and girls are in line for diplomas. Rev. Alexander C. Carmichael, pastor of DeWitt Community Church, suburban Syracuse, N.Y., will give the address. Kenneth R. Malcolm, a member and past president of the County Board of Education, will present diplomas. Principal Kenneth E. Sheetz will announce the recipients of awards.

Mt. Savage High School will conduct its graduation exercises tonight. Dr. Robert L. Jenks, pastor of First Methodist Church, Millville, N.J., will address the senior class of 51, their parents and friends. Mrs. Albert C. Cook, a member of the County Board of Education, will present the diplomas and Principal J. Hubert Radcliffe will present awards to outstanding members of the graduating class.

Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason will deliver the commencement address tonight to 23 seniors at Oldtown High School, their parents and friends. J. Goodloe Jackson, new president of the County Board of Education, will hand out the diplomas. Joseph H. Pellerzi, principal, will announce the award winners.

More than 500 other public high school seniors will get their diplomas Friday night in commencement exercises at Allegany, Beall, Valley and Flintstone high schools.

Tax Collector Arranges Trips To Seven Towns

Itinerary Starts Tuesday, June 9

Allegany County Tax Collector William B. Orndorff yesterday announced a schedule of visits to seven communities around the county for the purpose of collecting county and state real estate taxes.

Isaac J. Smith, assistant to Mr. Orndorff and a clerk from the main office at the Court House will visit the seven communities twice during June and once each in July and August.

The schedule starts next week with a visit to the Frostburg Fire Hall from 9:30 a. m. until 4 p. m. Tuesday, June 9. They will be at the Barton Town Hall from 10 a. m. until noon Wednesday, June 10; at the Midland Fire Hall from 1 to 3:30 p. m. Wednesday, June 10; at the Westernport Town Hall from 10 a. m. until 3:30 p. m. Thursday, June 11; trial magistrate's office in Mt. Savage, 9:30 a. m. until noon Friday, June 12; Flintstone Fire Hall, 1:30 until 3:30 p. m. Friday, June 12. First visit to the Lonaconing Fire Hall will be from 10 a. m. until 3:30 p. m. Tuesday, June 16.

About 4,500 Paid

Since approximately 40,000 tax bills were distributed last Thursday and Friday, Mr. Orndorff estimates that about 4,500 have been paid through the first three days of June.

The county's new single tax collection office has experienced some difficulty from taxpayers who fail to pay both their county and state real estate taxes at the same time. They must be billed a second time for the unpaid taxes. Others have figured their discounts incorrectly. Mr. Orndorff stressed that the 5 per cent discount during June is only for the county taxes. No discount is allowed for the state real estate taxes.

Mr. Orndorff also emphasized that taxpayers living outside the Cumberland area are not required to wait until Mr. Smith visits their community. They may mail their payments to the Court House or come to the Court House themselves for payment of the taxes.

The full schedule of visits to outlying communities:

Mt. Savage, trial magistrates office — June 12, 9:30 a. m. until 12 noon; June 19, 1:30 p. m. until 4 p. m.; July 13, 9:30 a. m. until 12 noon; August 11, 1:30 p. m. until 4 p. m.

Frostburg Fire Hall — June 9, 9:30 a. m. until 4 p. m.; June 24, 9:30 a. m. until 4 p. m.; July 14, 9:30 a. m. until 4 p. m.; August 12, 9:30 a. m. until 4 p. m.

Midland Fire Hall — June 10, 1 until 3:30 p. m.; June 17, 10 a. m. until noon; July 15, 1 until 4 p. m.; August 11, 10 a. m. until noon.

Rural Experts To Visit County

Two specialists from the University of Maryland will be in Allegany County today and tomorrow, according to County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

Today Charles Ellington from the Extension Service will visit the Glen Savage dairy farm at Mt. Savage to inspect some alfalfa demonstration plots. While he is here some Sudan grass will be planted there.

Tomorrow, Dr. L. O. Weaver, plant pathologist at the University of Maryland, and Dr. Donald Scott of the Beltsville Research Center will visit the farm of Theodore Stegmaier on Christie Road. Principal reason is to inspect some new varieties of strawberries which have met with great success on the Stegmaier farm. Mr. Steger said that most of these varieties have not proved successful in other areas of Maryland.

Many jobs remain to be done and the committee hopes sufficient force will be on hand Saturday to condition the camp for opening of the camping season June 28. Brook Bodkin will supervise a group of Boy Scouts in forestry work around the camping areas. Raymond Koontz has recruited enough men to build three new tent platforms which will house 12 more scouts, increasing the total camping capacity from 60 to 72 girls. Men are needed to set up the foundations for these platforms.

The Senior Scouts, in practice sessions for their Round-up, have constructed four outdoor picnic tables which will be painted and taken to the camping units.

Tents need to be patched and waterproofed, a project that will be directed by Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, camp chairman. Miss Irene Lapp will head the detail which will prepare the dining hall, kitchen and first aid center for the opening of camp. Miss Olive Hurlburt will direct the cleanup of the camp grounds. Many Scouts are needed for this project.

No "Pick And Shovel" Jobs

To make administration of the camp more efficient, Rev. Earl Harper will undertake the job of moving the present office building to a better location.

The camp committee said there will be no "pick and shovel" jobs assigned on Saturday. Workers are asked to bring their own tools such as paint brushes, hammers and saws. The camp committee said it would especially welcome anyone who would show up with a chain saw to help eliminate some of the thorn trees.

County Building For 1959 Near $1 Million Level

Total estimated cost of construction authorized in the unincorporated areas of Allegany County during the first five months of 1959 was nearly $1,000,000.

The five-month total was edged upward to $996,400 with the addition of 36 May permits for construction which the builders estimate will cost a total of $173,550.

Both totals are below the levels of both March and April when the spring surge was first apparent. In March there were 42 permits issued by the county assessment department and the total estimated cost was $242,750. In April, the totals were 68 permits and $516,500, highest levels for 1959.

Last month's figure was far overshadowed by May 1958 because in last year's corresponding month there was a single permit issued for a $2,308,254 waste treatment plant to serve the needs of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the Tri-Towns of Westernport, Luke and Piedmont.

That one major project sent the May 1958 total to $2,459,554 for 31 permits. Without the waste treatment plant, the May total a year ago would have been only $151,300, which is less than the total for last month.

Twenty of the 36 May permits issued by the assessment department were for new dwellings. There were four others for additions to dwellings, three for garages and two for dwelling foundations. There also were single permits for a barn, a driving range, a warehouse, to enclose a porch, to build a group of stores, a liveable basement, and a fire hall.

Last month's building was authorized in 21 different election districts of the county. The usual leader, District 29 at LaVale, was again in front with six permits. Three others were tied with three each. They were District 5, North End suburban; District 7, Cresaptown - Rawlings, and 31, McCoole. Four other districts had two May permits each. They were District 16, North Branch; 21, Gross; 26, Frostburg suburban, and 30, Zihlman.

There were single permits for work in Districts 1, Little Orleans; 2, Oldtown; 3, Flintstone; 6, West Side suburban; 11, Frostburg suburban; 13, Mt. Savage; 18, Midland; 20, Ellerslie-Corriganville; 22, East Side suburban; 24, Eckhart; 28, Frostburg suburban; 32, Frostburg suburban, and 33, Kifer.

Valley Forge Awards Given Local Schools

Fort Hill Graduate Cited For Essay

Fort Hill and Allegany high schools and a graduate of Fort Hill were honored here yesterday by the Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge, Pa., for helping to bring about a better understanding of the American way of life during 1958.

Charles E. Stites, a representative of the Freedoms Foundation, spoke to the students of Fort Hill during a special assembly program at the school yesterday morning.

He presented Fort Hill with a $100 bond and a George Washington Honor Medal for an editorial, "America Can't Forget," which appeared in the December 18, 1957 issue of the "Sentinel," the school paper.

Also cited was Miss Linda Craze, 1958 graduate of the school, who was awarded the George Washington Honor Medal for an essay, "Good Citizenship in the School." She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy T. Craze, 601 Henderson Avenue.

For the eighth straight year, Allegany High School was declared the winner of a principal school award. This year's award included a George Washington Memorial Medal for the school, a three-day pilgrimage to Valley Forge for a teacher-student team, and a Freedom's library of books, charts, films and pictures valued at $100.

Miss Mary E. Murray, teacher of the Citizenship Education class, and Joy Luckiewicz, a junior at the school, made the pilgrimage in May and visited at Valley Forge, Philadelphia, Fort McHenry and Washington.

After the assembly program at Fort Hill, Mr. Stiles spoke to the junior class of Allegany High School and complimented the students on past awards won by the school.

The object of the Foundation's annual awards program is to honor those citizens, regardless of race, creed or economic status, who make outstanding contributions toward improved public understanding and appreciation of the basic constitutional rights and freedoms inherent in the American way of life, through the things they write, do or say.

Maryland's weather forecast for today calls for mostly sunny weather with pleasant temperatures and a high between 74 and 80 degrees. That indicates that emergency plans to move the commencement into the Fort Hill auditorium in case of rain will not have to be invoked.

Shank, pastor of Fifth Street Methodist Church, Harrisburg, Pa. Joseph M. Miller, vice president of the Allegany County Board of Education, will present diplomas to a class of 265 seniors, the county's largest, and Victor D. Tax Collector Arranges Trips To Seven Towns

Allegany County Tax Collector William B. Orndorff yesterday announced a schedule of visits to seven communities around the county for the purpose of collecting county and state real estate taxes.

Isaac J. Smith, assistant to Mr. Orndorff and a clerk from the main office at the Court House will visit the seven communities twice during June and once each in July and August.

The schedule starts next week with a visit to the Frostburg Fire Hall from 9:30 a. m. until 4 p. m. Tuesday, June 9. They will be at the Barton Town Hall from 10 a. m. until noon Wednesday, June 10; at the Midland Fire Hall from 1 to 3:30 p. m. Wednesday, June 10; at the Westernport Town Hall from 10 a. m. until 3:30 p. m. Thursday, June 11; trial magistrate's office in Mt. Savage, 9:30 a. m. until noon Friday, June 12; Flintstone Fire Hall, 1:30 until 3:30 p. m. Friday, June 12. First visit to the Lonaconing Fire Hall will be from 10 a. m. until 3:30 p. m. Tuesday, June 16.

About 4,500 Paid

Since approximately 40,000 tax bills were distributed last Thursday and Friday, Mr. Orndorff estimates that about 4,500 have been paid through the first three days of June.

The county's new single tax collection office has experienced some difficulty from taxpayers who fail to pay both their county and state real estate taxes at the same time. They must be billed a second time for the unpaid taxes. Others have figured their discounts incorrectly. Mr. Orndorff stressed that the 5 per cent discount during June is only for the county taxes. No discount is allowed for the state real estate taxes.

Mr. Orndorff also emphasized that taxpayers living outside the Cumberland area are not required to wait until Mr. Smith visits their community. They may mail their payments to the Court House or come to the Court House themselves for payment of the taxes.

The full schedule of visits to outlying communities:

Rural Experts To Visit County

Two specialists from the University of Maryland will be in Allegany County today and tomorrow, according to County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

Today Charles Ellington from the Extension Service will visit the Glen Savage dairy farm at Mt. Savage to inspect some alfalfa demonstration plots. While he is here some Sudan grass will be planted there.

Tomorrow, Dr. L. O. Weaver, plant pathologist at the University of Maryland, and Dr. Donald Scott of the Beltsville Research Center will visit the farm of Theodore Stegmaier on Christie Road. Principal reason is to inspect some new varieties of strawberries which have met with great success on the Stegmaier farm. Dramatic Group To Stage Two Religious Plays Here

The Bishop's Company Players will present two religious plays at local churches next week under the sponsorship of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

"Cry, The Beloved Country," the dramatization of Alan Paton's best selling novel which deals with racial problems in South Africa, will be presented Wednesday, June 10, in First Presbyterian Church.

The play, "The Boy With The Cart," is the story of a mountain shepherd boy. It will be dramatized at St. John's Lutheran Church in South Cumberland on Thursday, June 11.

The cast includes several professional actors and actresses who have dedicated themselves to the work of presenting religious plays in communities.

The company was formed in 1952, and named the Bishop's Company Players in honor of Methodist Bishop Gerald H. Kennedy, who had been instrumental in the organization of the company.

Tickets for the plays are available from all members of the Cumberland Ministerial Association and at Central YMCA. The public is invited to attend both performances.
